NEW CANAAN, Conn. (AP) — Four members of a family have been found slain—attacked with ax, knife and hammer and strangled with a mod tie—and police were searching for a 17-year-old son for questioning.

John Rice, chef at a gun factory, found his wife and two of his children dead and his mother-in-law dying when he went home from work Thursday.

Missing along with one of the family cars was red-haired John Rice Jr., described as 6 feet 1 inch tall and weighing 200 pounds, an honor student senior at New Canaan High School who was about to become an Eagle Scout. Police posted a 13-state alarm for him.

Police said the youth's mother, Janet, 44, died of multiple ax wounds in the head and stab wounds in the neck and chest.

Her son Stephen 16, was killed with ax blows in the head and her daughter Nancy, 14, was found strangled with a tie.

Mrs. Rice's mother, Edith Fitzpatrick, 73, "had her head bashed in" with a hammer and died of a skull fracture at Northwalk Hospital without regaining consciousness, Police Chief Henry E. Keller said.

In the white, two-story colonial style house police found an ax, a knife with a decorative handle, a brightly colored tie and a hammer which they said were the death weapons.

Police said a .22 caliber pistol and some ammunition was missing from the house.

The elder Rice was a chef at the High Standard gun factory in Hamden, about 40 miles away. He discovered the bodies about 1:45 p.m.

Dr. Elliot Gross, chief medical examiner for Connecticut, said the time of death was probably about 9:30 a.m. All the bodies were in nightclothes.

The Rice house sits in a middle-class neighborhood and neighbors said the family was quiet. They said they had noticed nothing unusual at the home Thursday.

The bodies were found in different rooms—Mrs. Rice on a day bed in the living room, Nancy on the floor beside her mother, Stephen in an upstairs bedroom and Mrs. Fitzpatrick in her bedroom downstairs.

Nixon Would Renew Raids If U.S. Forces Endangered

WASHINGTON (AP) — In an expansion of his bombing policy, President Nixon says he will send American planes against military targets in North Vietnam again if enemy troop infiltration imperils the shrinking U.S. force in the South.

In a stern warning aimed at Hanoi, Nixon told his first news conference in 19 weeks Thursday night that if enemy infiltration threatens to intensify the fighting in the South as U.S. troops withdraw:

"I will order the bombing of military sites in North Vietnam, the passes that lead from North Vietnam into South Vietnam, the military complexes, the military supply lines . . . let there be no misunderstanding . . ."

Although there were heavy air strikes against North Vietnamese targets last May and again in November, Nixon's declaration expanded the stated policy on bombing and raised the possibility of increased U.S. air action over the North in the months ahead.

Earlier bombings have been linked to anti-aircraft and missile attacks on U.S. reconnaissance planes over the North—flights the United States claims are made as part of an "understanding" reached with North Vietnam when President Lyndon B. Johnson halted regular bombing of the North Nov. 1, 1968.

Stressing withdrawal of U.S. troops from Vietnam as his central purpose, Nixon also declared that Cambodian forces are now tying down 40,000 North Vietnamese troops who otherwise "would be over in South Vietnam killing Americans."

He appealed for congressional approval of a quarter-billion-dollar aid program to support the Cambodian war effort.

At the same time, he said he could conceive of no circumstances—"none whatever"—under which the United States would again send its own ground forces into Cambodia.

Possibly reflecting his frustration with North Vietnam's conduct in the Paris peace talks, its refusal to exchange prisoners of war, and its potential for stepping up the fighting in the South, Nixon at one point called it an "international outlaw."

But he said the United States intends to persist in the Paris talks as long as the other side is willing, although "we do not have great hopes" for any results.

Nixon, in the otherwise wide-ranging quizzing, did not mention and was not asked about the railroad strike, which occupied much attention in recent days. The strike was called off just as the 7 p.m. news conference was beginning.

On other domestic issues, he said:

—His economic policies are working, the rate of inflation is

Laird to Explain Bombing Policy

Senate Panel Told Of New Approach, Need for New Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird was called before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee today to explain President Nixon's broadened North Vietnam bombing policy and request for new aid to Cambodia.

Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., a former secretary of the Air Force, had served notice he would quiz Laird about the bombing policy spelled out by Nixon in a news conference Thursday night.

"We're building up the air war and cutting down the ground war," declared Symington, a frequent critic of Nixon's policies in Southeast Asia.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers chose not to answer Thursday when Symington posed this question: How are North Vietnamese gunners supposed to tell the difference between unarmed U.S. reconnaissance fighter-bombers—which Laird says the enemy is not supposed to shoot down—and the armed fighter-bombers which escort them?

Laird has been giving expanded definitions of circumstances under which U.S. planes might hit at North Vietnamese targets under the 1968 bomb-halt understanding.

May Strike Back

Nixon affirmed at the news conference that U.S. planes fired upon may strike back at the whole military complex supporting the attacking missile.

Furthermore, the President said, he will order bombing of military sites in North Vietnam if he decides the enemy is developing a potential there to endanger U.S. forces in the South.

As for the $255-million aid program he wants for Cambodia, Nixon struck at arguments by opponents who express fear the assistance will lead to serious U.S. military intervention.

Nixon said he could foresee no circumstances under which he would order U.S. ground troops into Cambodia.

The quarter-billion aid program for Cambodia is, in my opinion, probably the best investment in foreign assistance that the United States has made in my political lifetime," he continued.

"The Cambodians, a people seven million only, neutralists previously, untrained, are tying down 40,000 trained North Vietnamese regulars. If those North Vietnamese weren't in Cambodia, they would be over killing Americans . . ."

"The dollar we send to Cambodia saves American lives and enables us to bring Americans home."

beginning to recede and an unemployment rate under 5 per cent can be achieved even without the stimulation of a wartime economy.

—He did not think it proper to ask management and labor to hold down prices and wages when government was the "major culprit." But since he has taken such anti-inflationary measures as cutting the budget, "it is time for labor and management to quit betting on inflation and do start help fighting inflation."

3rd Party Out

—"Under no circumstances" will he support third-party candidates against Republican candidates in coming elections. "I personally expect to support all of those Republicans who may be running for the United States Senate in 1972 if they want my support, and some of them are members of what is called the liberal wing of the party." He declined discussion of the 1972 presidential race, saying he would "let them speculate on whether I will be a one-term president."

—Donald Rumsfeld will become presidential counselor, and will be succeeded as director of the Office of Economic Opportunity by Frank Carlucci. Nixon promised a high-level administration post for Rep. George Bush, R-Tex., who was defeated in a bid for the Senate.

On international matters, Nixon said that despite periodic difficulties in U.S.-Soviet relations "the significant thing is that we

Bubble Makers Told To Change Formulas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Food and Drug Administration officials say two major manufacturers of bubble bath for children have agreed to reformulate their products in response to complaints of irritation and urinary tract infection.

FDA spokesmen said the two firms—Purex and Gold Seal—agreed to remove from their bubble baths what one official described as an industrial-strength detergent.

Laboratory tests of the detergent had failed to produce reactions in experimental animals, but the agency pressed the firms for the formula change on the basis of complaints from doctors and consumers.

The FDA concluded that "even though the lab tests didn't show anything, the difficulties do exist and therefore something ought to be done about it," said Dr. Alfred Weisler, chief of the FDA's cosmetic division.

The products to be reformulated are Purex' "Bubble Club Fun Bath" and Gold Seal's "Mr. Bubble." Both are listed as among the most widely sold brands, with Mr. Bubble sales estimated at 25 million boxes last year.

Gold Seal vice president Robert Gale said in a telephone interview that "in terms of the millions of boxes sold over the past 10 years, the number of complaints has been statistically negligible."

Some Progress Is Claimed In Mending Nation's Division

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, sidestepping a news conference since July, to chance to renew his strong partisan "law and order" campaign stance, has held out the olive branch to the congressional Democrats he attacked and liberal critics in his own Republican party.

At the same time, Nixon said his administration has made "some progress" in healing the country's divisions but "not as much as I would like."

The President also declared

Thursday night, at his first news conference since July, to speculate about his own chances for winning a second term.

There was a political flavor to much of the questioning at the news conference, though Nixon said, at one point, "I really expected a lot more questions on the 1970 elections than we have had tonight."

Nixon was asked if he thought the R-publican emphasis on law and order paid dividends at the polls last month and what he thought the big issue will be in 1972

He said he had done his best to meet "my responsibility as President to do everything I can to work for the election of men who will support me in keeping the pledges that I made to the American people when I ran for President."

"Having done that, however," he said, "it is now my responsibility, now that the people have spoken, to work with those men and those women elected by the people in 1970."

Nixon expressed the hope that in 1971 "Democrats and Republicans will work with the President in a policy to bring an end to the war, in bringing our economy ahead, in holding down inflation, in moving on such great programs as the health program, which will be one of the highest priority programs I will submit."

A few minutes later, he extended a peace bid to liberal Republicans dissatisfied with the White House-encouraged campaign this fall that led to election of Conservative James L. Buckley over GOP Sen. Charles E. Goodell of New York.

He pledged to support personally all Republican senators in 1972 who seek his backing.

"Some of them are, as you know, members of what is called the liberal wing of the party," Nixon noted. "But they are Republicans. We welcome them. We want them. We need both."

Nixon gave no clue as to his own 1972 plans in dealing with a question on the emergence of Democratic presidential aspirants and speculation he might be a one-term President.

"I think I will let them speculate about the one-term presidency," he said.

Nixon was asked early in the news conference about the feeling "not just among blacks and students, but also among some of your natural Republican allies, some voters and certainly, as you may have noticed, columnists that you have yet to convey a sufficiently sharp and clear sense of direction visioned on many matters to end the divisions in this country."

Madison Gets 16 Inches Snow Snarls Fox Cities

"My dad shoveled the snow off the sidewalk and driveway. Please excuse him because he had to shave his whiskers. And I will make sure he will get their on time from now on, Lori W."

This was the message written by his daughter for James Westphal, Appleton public school elementary coordinator, who carried it to work this morning. He kicked the snow off his boots and walked into Acting Supt. of Schools Orlyn Ziemann's office five minutes late with it.

This was an example of about the most serious effect of the seven inches of snow which hit the Fox Cities area late Wednesday and early today. However, it also worked to snarl traffic, block driveways and clog traffic.

Minor accidents were reported in Kaukauna, Appleton, Neenah and Menasha but apparently only one in Neenah resulted in minor injury. Authorities reported no other incidents resulting from the storm.

Outagamie authorities also reported minor accidents and cars in ditches. There were no reports of schools closing.

Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. engineers said that the seven inches fell from 3:30 p.m. to 9:30 a.m. today.

U. S. Weather Bureau officials at Green Bay said the snow probably would not be lost despite possible mid-30s temperatures Saturday. It would settle the light blanket which has fallen, they added.

At least 12 deaths were attributed to the storm, four in traffic, and eight from heart attacks.

The victims included a Neenah man, Harold Hanson, 73, vice president and treasurer of the Hanson-Rickard Insurance Agency, was pronounced dead on arrival this morning at Theda Clark Hospital where he was taken after he collapsed while shoveling snow. Funeral arrangements are pending at the Westgor Funeral Home.

The blanket became thinner as one moved north. Green Bay had four or five inches and the area north of a line from Grantsburg, Wis., east to Escanaba, Mich., had no snow. However, much of northern Wisconsin already has snow from previous storms.

Slight winds accompanied the storm so there were no serious problems with drifting. The U. S. Weather Bureau said that winds of about 8 to 15 miles per hour are expected Friday and Saturday but they also are not expected to cause drifting.

Hundreds of schools in the southern part of the state including the University of Wisconsin at Madison, were closed.

More snow is expected.

U. S. Weather Bureau officials said that a light fall is possible tonight and that light snow or showers are predicted for Sunday. It will turn colder Monday and Tuesday, with more snow possible Monday.

The past snowfall, which resulted from an Oklahoma Panhandle storm, hit southern Wisconsin the hardest. Madison had a record snowfall of about 16 inches during a 24-hour period and nine or 10 inches also fell in the Milwaukee area.

Trains Thundering Down Tracks Again After Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's trains thundered down the tracks again today after railroad workers ended a 24-hour strike under orders from Congress, federal courts and union leaders.

"I now order my people to return to work immediately," said strike leader C.L. Dennis after a federal judge threatened fines of $200,000 a day if the walkout continued and the government pledged prompt new talks aimed at finally settling the year-long wage dispute.

Negotiations continued today. Striking union members downed picket signs and went back to work in most areas to begin moving stranded commuters, tons of Christmas mail and other rail shipments under a special federal law forbidding further striking until March 1.

It was only the third nationwide rail strike in half a century.

The end of the walkout made unnecessary White House priorities for moving emergency shipments of medical supplies, defense materials, food, fuel and other essential goods by air, ship and truck.

Chief railroad negotiator John

P. Hiltz said the industry would begin processing payrolls to put top pay rates—ranging from $3.40 to $3.60 per hour—by 1972.

The 13.5 per cent immediate pay hike imposed by Congress was part of a three-year, 37 per cent package of wage increases offered for nearly 500,000 rail workers along with the strike rejected by the unions before the walkout.

The offer would raise current top pay rates—ranging from $3.40 to $3.60 per hour—by 13.2 over three years, but the unions objected to work-rule changes demanded by the industry in exchange for the wage hikes.

Union officials said the work-rule changes would eliminate thousands of jobs and speed up work loads of rail workers.

The Clerks' union and three other AFL-CIO labor organizations involved in the dispute will be free to strike again March 1 if there is no final settlement by then, unless Congress imposes a further no-strike law.

The three other unions in the dispute were the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way

Employees and Hotel and Restaurant Workers Union. They called off their strike several hours before the Clerks' union buckled under the order of U.S. Dist. Court Judge John H. Pratt.

Dennis, president of the AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, said his 200,000 union members were returning to work under threats of fines and jail sentences, but expressed hope for working out the rest of the settlement peacefully.

"These conferences will lead to a settlement of the issues. We don't think either side wants to go back to Congress. I'm certainly hopeful," Dennis said as wage talks resumed shortly after the strike was called off Thursday night.

NEENAH — Festive walls of North Shore Golf Club reverberated with the sounds of yuletide music Thursday night as members made their "swing into Christmas" with the melodic assistance of the North Shore Singers at the annual Duck Dinner.

For the fourth year, the now traditional club membership chorus was the highspot of a holiday evening which ended with the capacity-reservation crowd picking up the musical beat by joining in harmony with the singing of old and familiar Christmas carols.

During the formal part of the program, the chorus, which has been rehearsing since October under the direction of Mrs. Harold Adams, Appleton, provided some background for Mrs. Richard Truitt, who, accompanied by her own guitar, sang a group of folk songs.

There was choral background, too, for presentations by Mrs. Nicholas Gilbert, Mr. and Mrs. Gig Young, Menasha, and Mrs. Andrew Sharp, Appleton. Charles Iltis, John Hanchett, Menasha, and David Arnold were featured in other numbers.

The musical program began with "Everything's Coming Up Roses" from "Gypsy," followed by an arrangement of songs from "Hello Dolly" and then a group of Christmas songs.

Harold Adams was master of ceremonies. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Allen and Mr. and Mrs. Donald C. Shepard Jr., with Mr. and Mrs. Adams, arranged the evening.

Yuletide necklaces added holiday cheer as Mrs. Walter Brummund, Appleton, and Mrs. George Mueller and Mrs. Robert Mosher sang out, at right. Below, Mrs. Harold Adams, who is directing the chorus for the third year, leads the members in rehearsal. Mrs. Adams usually directs from the piano.

A Group of folk songs was the musical offering of Mrs. Richard Truitt as she accompanied herself on her guitar. Chorus member, John Hanchett, quietly listens in the background.

Your Problems

Therapy Helps Them Accept Themselves

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I can't sign my name and I can't get any mail at home because if someone should open your letter I would die of shame. I am 18 and a homosexual. Some gay boys love the life and don't want to change. I am not one of those. I want to marry and have a family. But when I see a pretty boy I am helpless.

It all begins very casually. We start out being friends and everything is wholesome and decent. Then I get ideas and the relationship changes into something else. Not all the guys go along, but most of them do. This leads me to believe I pick my friends with that goal in mind.

I've always wanted to be a minister but I'm afraid I would get into trouble and disgrace my church as well as myself. Where can I go for help? After one of my escapades, I become so depressed that suicide seems like the only answer. — Woody.

Dear Woody: You need therapy at once. If your parents can send you to a private doctor, I recommend it. They need not know the nature of your problem. Many teens seek psychiatric help for "severe moodiness." If you can't afford private treatment, get counseling through a mental health clinic. Look in the telephone book.

I recently stated that the percentage of homosexuals made straight through therapy is very small (under 4 per cent.) I received some angry letters from psychiatrists but I'm not backing off. The statement stands.

I continue to suggest therapy for homosexuals, however, not because I believe it will make them heterosexual, but because therapy can help them accept themselves as they are. I can also help them cope with other personality disorders and reduce their feelings of self-hate and guilt.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a twice-divorced woman of 33, with a six-year-old child. I am attractive, college-trained and have worked in my profession for 11 years.

My second divorce was in 1968. I decided I would never marry again since I had made the same mistake twice —

The Ailing House Lift Out Tiles to Touchup

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q: A water leak from above, since fixed, caused a rusty stain on several of the white acoustical ceiling tiles. How to take the stains out? Or should I simply buy some new tiles and put them in? — Milwaukee.

A: Lift out the tiles, and apply one of the new rust-removing preparations widely sold in hardware stores. The new Devcon Rust Jelly is excellent, to mention one of the brands available.

Q: We have had our oil burner since 1955, and have had no trouble. Each year it has been oiled and cleaned during the summer and adjusted by the service man of the oil company. So far, we have had no trouble at all; it has performed excellently. But how long can I expect this to last? How many years is normal for an oil burner? — Norfolk.

A: Perhaps the biggest factor in the life span of your burner is your annual inspection and check-up. I see no reason why it shouldn't continue to do well for at least another ten years, could easily be more. Without an annual check-up, however, expect a far shorter time.

Q: Where can I find plans to build a simple A-frame? I would like to put this up on some land I have in the north, for hunting and winter weekends. — Milwaukee.

Polish Not Joking When They Let Pretty Girls Call Signals

WARSAW (AP) — An elite corps of 400 Polish police is armed with little more than tin whistles, winning ways and regulation miniskirts. Each day the pert Polish misses wade into Warsaw's traffic to keep order.

The girls are spearheading a plan to use more women in the Police Department. A recent battery of government tests indicated women could control the Polish capital's 110,000 motor vehicles "more gracefully and efficiently" than men.

"Girls cope much better with traffic incidents," says Maj. Jerzy Domanski, who commands 40 of the girls. "They are also faster at finding diplomatic solutions to problems."

Good looks figure high in selecting the girls. "They don't have to be beauty queens, but a gracious figure and an attractive face are necessary ingredients," said the head of the training school.

The young women are permitted to use any makeup or hairstyles they want, in order to look their best. They have blue-gray uniforms with white epaulettes and wear boots.

Despite their charm, they can be tough. "You have to be firm and also know you are

A Course of Caution is what the Polish government hopes motorists will use now that miniskirted women police are calling the signals in Warsaw. Woman's Club Recalls Patients at Annual Tea

The First Congregational Church, United Church of Christ was the setting Thursday afternoon when the Appleton Woman's Club met for its annual Christmas tea.

In the spirit of the season, members brought gaily wrapped gifts for patients at Winnebago State Hospital.

Entertaining the group was well known concert soloist, John Van Belkom. Accompanied by Helena Hoffman, he presented "The World Sings of Christmas."

absolutely right with the offending motorist," says Nela Urbanska, one of the elite. "I have never yet had to argue with a driver. They usually pay up fast, glad the fine isn't too high."

The standards of Polish drivers aren't very high, the girls believe.

"They are not courteous to each other," one said. "I have yet to see a driver who, after making some slight infringement of a rule and disturbing another driver, would at least lift his hand in apology."

Carry Tear Gas

Just in case of an emergency, the girls carry small vials of tear gas. They don't carry pistols.

Figures for road accidents indicate the traffic department has a problem. Last year in 36,532 accidents 3,148 persons were killed—a high rate considering the small number of cars in the country.

The sight of winsome traffic cops is taking some getting used to.

"The other day I was on traffic duty when a driver noticed me," one of the girls recalled. "Staring me up and down, he crashed straight into the back of the car in front. I had to book him."

Another girl said she was on duty "when this driver got out of his car. Without any warning he holds me high up in his arms, hugging me and shouting congratulations. Then he puts me down and drives off, leaving me a bunch of carnations. I was too amazed to protest."

The girls go through 10 months of training in such matters as accident procedure, the use of radar traps and how to detect drunkenness and doctored taxi meters.

Applicants must have a high school certificate and know at least one foreign language.

The girls are paid well, compared with the Polish average wage of 2,200 zloties or $91 a month. Their starting salary is 2,600 zloties and they can earn up to 4,000 as officers.

REPLACE INNER WINDOWS with an ideal replacement unit for "painted in," rotted or leaky inner windows. If you would like to see homes where these wonderful windows are installed, call Tom Temple at 734-9700. (Adv.)

No more reaching, bending or stretching to clean the inner window of your home. Top and bottom glass panels can be removed from outside the house for easy cleaning. No more step-ladder or ladder without disturbing your present wood or aluminum storm windows.

The inner windows are installed without disturbing your present wood or aluminum storm windows.

DeVac is also the manufacturer of Glass Wall and Ray Vent porch and breezeway enclosures. The units combine the versatility and beauty of wood with aluminum glass panels.

Over 100 of these DeVac porches have been installed in the Fox Valley area.

Another high quality product is the Flexalum awning. Flexalum awnings, a division of Bridgeport Brass Company, are available in five basic styles: the aluminum storm window in contact to stick or bind the window. The nylon cushion with vinyl and mohair track permits special two-coat baked enamel process in the finish. The paint is guaranteed not to chip, peel, fade or crack. A 10-year bonded guarantee covers both the paint and awning itself.

Bridgeport Brass manufactures the exclusive perforated "See-Thru" roll up awnings that enable you to see out, yet keep direct sunlight from pouring in. The Roll-up awnings are rolled up and down from inside the house.

Tom Temple Window, Door & Awning Co., Inc. manufactures anodized aluminum storm windows and doors which are designed to offer Kool-shade sunscreen or aluminum screens. In the summertime, top screens can be placed in the top half of the aluminum storm window in addition to the bottom screens, giving full screen summertime ventilation. (Adv.)

National Environmental Scene Quiet, According to LWV Board Member

BY CAROL HANSON
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

"A great deal of the environmental story is that not very much is happening," Mrs. Ruth Clusen told members of the Neenah-Menasha League of Women Voters and their guests Wednesday evening.

A former president of the Green Bay League and of the Wisconsin League, Mrs. Clusen currently is serving on the national board of directors.

Citing three rather new things on the federal level concerning environmental action and legislation, Mrs. Clusen pointed first to environmental decade begun Jan. 1, 1970, when President Nixon signed the National Environmental Policy Act. As a result, the Council on Environmental Quality was organized.

Impossible Assignment

According to Mrs. Clusen, it was given an impossible assignment of assessing the state of environmental affairs on both state and national levels and then reporting its findings by the end of the fiscal year.

The second part of its assignment was to consider every action taken by the federal government in any of its hundreds of bureaus and departments that might have environmental ramifications. It was to see that no unfortunate effects resulted.

Judging by the recent oil spill by the Navy, the burning flames in the Gulf of Mexico, the mess in Santa Barbara and the Alaskan pipeline, Mrs. Clusen said, its failure couldn't be more complete.

Pointing out that the first step of the environmental decade hasn't accomplished what many people hoped it would last Jan. 1, Mrs. Clusen said the council's report issued in August "laid it on the line" and was surprisingly critical for an agency appointed by the President and dependent on Congress for money.

The next major event on the environmental horizon, she said, was the President's plan for reorganizing environmental agencies. From this came reorganization no. 3 — the act which created Environmental Protection Agency (EPA). Reorganization no. 4 resulted in the agency which is concerned with atmosphere and weather, with the sea and its problems, as well as those of the coastal regions.

"The new agency," Mrs. Clusen emphasized, "will affect us down to the local area, to the banks of the Fox River and the smoke from our chimneys to our pocketbooks and our taxes. We will have to provide the funds to do the things this agency decides must be done."

Calling this the most sweeping attempt by the federal government or by any president to do something of this sort through executive order, Mrs. Clusen said both reorganization plans went into effect through this procedure.

Important components in the new agency include the Federal Water Quality Administration and the National Air Pollution Administration.

To be added to EPA is the Bureau of Solid Waste Management, as well as others concerned with pesticides, radiation and thermo policies.

Mrs. Clusen talked about the Senate's approval last week of William Ruckelshaus as head of the agency.

"Nobody knows much about him or how deep his commitment is. Only time can answer this question. Yet even if his commitment is great, the nature of the laws with which he has to work and the amount of money the agency is given to do the job will tell whether it can be done or not."

Reasonable Standards

There is considerable hope, she said, that if it is given a fair chance and enough money, if the public demands strict enforcement, if reasonable standards and timetables for compliance are set that the agency may achieve something.

The third piece of federal legislation concerning Mrs. Clusen was the Clean Air Act of 1970. Stating that is has been under discussion by both the Senate and the House for more than a year, she pointed out that no compromises have been worked out as yet between the two legislative bodies.

The act of 1967 under which we are now working she called a "complete hodge-podge" and said the new act would provide nationwide minimum standards.

Air, she said, is a more difficult problem than water because of the many variables. To be considered are such things as prevailing winds, stationary and movable sources and community air.

"The car is the real name of the problem" as far as Congress is concerned. The problems of automobile emissions, of manufacturers' responsibilities, of monitoring emissions and of providing something that won't be too expensive for used cars all must be answered. While the Senate version calls for a clean car by 1975, the House has set 1978.

"Cross your fingers," she told the group, "and hope we get the new version passed before Congress adjourns."

Born in the Netherlands and now residing in Kimberly, Van Belkom was trained in voice and music in Europe and holds a singers diploma from St. Gregorius Union. He has had major roles in "Bocaccio," "Tzardaz Furstin," and "De Dragonders" and is a long time member of MacDowell Male Chorus and Sacred Heart Church Choir.

A graduate of Alverno College, Miss Hoffman is a teacher and director organist at Sacred Heart.

Lame-Duck Junket Defended

BY BILL KNUTSON
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Several of seven lame-duck legislators from Wisconsin who last week attended a national conference in San Juan, Puerto Rico, have defended their taxpayer-financed trip saying that business conducted there was of vital interest to the state.

The Associated Press reported late last month that three Republican assemblymen who had been defeated for re-election and one who had not run were among the state legislators who went to the national conference of legislative leaders. The conference was from Nov. 30 through Dec. 4.

The four legislators were identified as Reps. Norbert Nuttleman of West Salem, Elmer Nitschke of Beaver Dam, Kyle Kenyon of Tomah and Paul Alfonsi, Minocqua. Alfonsi did not seek re-election. The other three were defeated.

Democratic State Rep. Robert Huber of West Allis, who will become speaker of the assembly next month, today identified three more lame duck Republicans who made the journey. They were Reps. Willis J. Hutnik of Ladysmith, Russell A. Olson of Kenosha and George B. Belting, Beloit.

Huber, who also went to Puerto Rico, said no Democratic lame-duck senators or assemblymen went along.

Policy Needed
He said the leadership of both houses will have to establish a policy for future attendance at such meetings. He earlier had stated that the practice of rewarding lame - duck legislators with junkets will not be repeated while he is in office.

Huber also had said that Assembly Speaker Harold V. Froehlich, R-Appleton, will "have to answer" why he permitted the lame-duck lawmakers to attend the conference, which drew legislators from all 50 states.

The conference site, according to Huber, was selected by the executive committee of state legislative leaders. Wisconsin lawmakers had no voice in naming the location, he said.

Froehlich said he helped pick assemblymen who made the trip. Selections were made, he said, on the basis of their participation in inter-state legislative activities over the years and their legislative leadership.

With the exception of Alfonsi, who proclaimed a year ago that he would not seek re-election, the legislators who went to Puerto Rico were not lame ducks when they were selected last August, according to Froehlich.

He said the delegates "had made their plans" and had deposited their money before the fall election.

5 Democrats Attend
Huber said that Froehlich, as Assembly speaker, "told me how many (delegates) I could choose." He said Froehlich at first told him he could name four, but later increased the number to six. Huber said five Democratic assemblymen went.

Huber and Froehlich said they could not readily recall how many legislators went to Puerto Rico.

All of the legislators, including Huber, who were contacted by The Post-Crescent felt that delegates got a good insight into federal revenue sharing issues,

Panel Favors County-Level Plans Agency

BY ARLEN BOARDMAN
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

A special regional planning committee tentatively agreed Thursday that any new regional planning organization for the mid-Fox Valley area should be developed on the county level and should be controlled by elected representatives, not citizen or governor-appointed delegates.

The consensus was drawn out of the committee members by outgoing State Rep. David Martin, chairman and the one who drew together the group to discuss the current problems of overlap and work duplication of the two Appleton-based regional planning agencies.

The committee, made up of area county and municipal elected officials, also endorsed continuing the ad hoc committee under Martin's direction, despite a demand by Gordon A. Bubolz, chairman of the Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission, one of the two present agencies, that Martin step aside. Bubolz prefers that the three-member committees of Northeastern and the other agency, the Fox Valley Council of Governments (COG), should discuss merger of the two.

Agreed on Points

Ad hoc committeemen agreed on several points. They all said they wanted the committee to be continued and endorsed Martin's intention to come up with more analysis and alternatives on some-sort of merger of the two agencies.

They also agreed that the group should work for the "best interests" of the mid-Valley area.

Only Martin disagreed on the idea of having some citizen representation on a governing body for a multi-county regional planning agency. He said that he felt all delegates should be elected officials of cities, towns, villages and counties.

"The policymaking and control should be vested in those people who are elected by the people," he said, noting that this is the trend of the times.

Elected officials

Martin said that he preferred all elected officials as representatives because someday he envisioned that regional planning's governing body would be taking on "much more responsibility and a responsibility that goes well beyond planning functions." He cited taxation and establishment of ordinances as two of these functions.

Calumet officials at the meeting in the early portions and indicated they were interested in joining some multi-county organization but were cautious and just listening at this time.

At a separate meeting between members of the Outagamie County Board's Executive Committee and representatives from Calumet and Winnebago counties, it was brought out that as of Oct. 1, 1971, at least two-thirds of the membership of a planning agency would have to be elected officials for that agency to be eligible for U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development funds.

Chartered by State

Outagamie County Board Chairman Russell De LaHunt, Kaukauna, said that "this would seem to disqualify Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission as an area planning organization."

However, Roland Tonn, Calumet County planner, said that since Northeastern whose membership is only one-third

Carl Sorcie Retains Post

Trades Council Business Head Wins Power Struggle

Carl Sorcie, business representative for the Appleton Building and Construction Trades Council, weathered an internal struggle for his job and was named Thursday to continue in the post.

Council delegates, who are members of 22 trades unions in Appleton, voted by a 12-8 margin to hire Sorcie. He had been challenged for the job by Marvin DeVries, of the Electricians Local 577, and Norb McHughes, of the Bricklayers Local 10.

Sorcie was selected for the job in April of 1969 after the death of Elmer V. (Jack) Jacobson. The council business representative runs the council which coordinates the activities of the 22 unions and their more than 2,000 members.

Sorcie has been affiliated with union activity for over 20 years. He originally was a member of the Carpenters Local in Milwaukee. He was state building trades representative and headquartered in Milwaukee before coming to Appleton.

Power Struggle

He became entangled in a power struggle last summer after an election between himself and DeVries. DeVries won the election but the decision was thrown out on a technicality.

Sorcie said today that the delegates also adopted new by-laws Thursday night, including one requiring the council business representative to have been a member of the Building Trades AFL-CIO for at least two years.

Sorcie said it would take a 3/4 vote to oust him under the new by-laws.

He said that now he hoped to mend the split which was caused by the months of struggling for the business agent post.

DeVries said he wouldn't challenge the election but he criticized what he considered unfair methods used by Peter Succa, council president, to get Sorcie elected.

"The screening committee recommended unanimously that all three candidates be recommended to the council for consideration, but the president allowed only one candidate to be voted on," he said. "The president refused to recognize the screening committee recommendation."

Judge to Decide Menominee Voting Trust Issue Today

NEOPIT — A circuit judge's decision in a Shawano County courtroom today was expected to determine whether crucial decisions affecting the future of the Menominee Indians are made here Saturday or delayed for a time.

The annual shareholders meeting of Menominee Enterprises, Inc., is scheduled Saturday, with the method of selecting executives of the Menominee-owned corporation as a central issue.

But the organization calling itself DRUMS (Determination of Rights and Unity for Menominee Shareholders) is seeking a temporary injunction and restraining order to prevent the shareholders' meeting from voting on continuing or abolishing the Menominee Common Stock and Voting Trust.

Judge James Martineau of Oconto was scheduled to hear arguments in the case this morning.

Rights Violated

The 73-point complaint by DRUMS claims the Rights of shareholders are being violated by the procedures governing the election. They say 18, 19 and 20-year-old Menominees whose votes make up 15 1/2 per cent of the total should be allowed to cast their own ballots. At present, their shares are held in trust by First Wisconsin Trust Co. of Milwaukee, which casts the votes in a block.

DRUMS also is asking the court to name a neutral party, a public accounting firm, to conduct the balloting. Enterprises officials have announced such a firm has been hired to count ballots and tabulate the results, but DRUMS wants the distribution and collection of ballots also handled by the third party.

The coming shareholders' meeting has triggered a bitter and vigorous battle for proxy votes between DRUMS and Enterprises and its backers.

Counter Group

Despite the possibility that no votes will be counted Saturday if an injunction is issued today, members of a group called "Menominees for Progress" have been canvassing all of Menominee County and the cities of Shawano and Antigo in a search for proxies.

Too Widespread

Menominees for Progress supports Enterprises and opposes DRUMS. The group was formed to counteract the effect of the DRUMS battle with Enterprises.

DRUMS chapters centered in Menominee County, Milwaukee and Chicago have been collecting proxies for the past four months, in an attempt to control the elections Saturday.

Basically, DRUMS objects to the voting trust because the group believes shareholders would have a stronger voice in company affairs if the voting trust were eliminated. According to the termination agreement, drawn up when the former Menominee Indian Reservation was terminated from federal supervision, the trust can be eliminated every 10 years by a majority vote of the stockholders. A favorite vote would continue the trust 10 more years.

Under the voting trust arrangement, shareholders elect one of the seven trustees each corporation directors. DRUMS members feel shareholders should be able to select directors themselves, without a go-between.

Oppose Land Sale

They make this demand because they claim Enterprises has been selling their lands including the Legend Lake development and the Wolf River Lease held by the state without their consent. The loss of Indian lands to white men is one of DRUMS's major complaints.

Theodore Boyd Jr., vice president of Enterprises, said Wednesday night at a Menominees for Progress meeting that it is not true that Enterprises has sold the Wolf River to the state.

St. John Girl, 3, Killed When Hit by Truck

ST. JOHN — A three-year-old girl was killed about 2 p.m. Thursday when she darted into the street in front of her home and was struck by a panel truck.

Leroy Hughes, Calumet County coroner, said that Corinna Krueger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merlin Krueger, route 2, Hilbert, was dead on arrival at Kaukauna Community Hospital where she was taken by Larry's Ambulance, Appleton. She died of a skull fracture, he said.

The victim, 12th county highway fatality in 1970 compared with seven a year ago, was struck by a truck driven by Dennis Dorn, 30, route 2, Hilbert. Hughes, who said the investigation is continuing, indicated that Dorn had turned off a side road and was traveling west on County Trunk B.

County Unit Unhappy Democrats Won't Pay State Dues

Expressing disapproval over the way Wisconsin Democratic Party officials manage party funds, the Outagamie County party unit voted Thursday to withhold the state party's share of county dues.

The local unit will keep the funds until state party officials justify their use of them and clearly reasons for allowing the Milwaukee County party unit to go without contributing toward state party finances.

The action was prompted by a letter from the 10th Congressional District party unit which is withholding its dues from the state party because of Milwaukee County's nonpayment.

Not Filed
Party Chairman Lawrence Longley reported that required financial reports to the state administrative committee and to the membership at annual conventions haven't been filed for a lengthy period of time.

Other members questioned the effectiveness and credibility of the state party. Glenn Thompson and John Bowers, Democratic candidates for Assembly posts in Outagamie County in November, complained of unfulfilled promises of financial help from the state party for their campaigns.

Bowers said state officials advised candidates to spend up to $400, promising reimbursement which he said never came. "We're in the hole already," he said, adding he hadn't spent the $400, but if he had he "would be in the hole even further."

Boardman added he is uncertain how the state party spends funds it collects from county and district organizations.

Financial Problems

James Dana, an Appleton member, argued against withholding the funds, pointing out the state party has had severe financial troubles and that there long has been factionalism between Milwaukee Democrats and members and officials from the rest of the state.

Withholding money might further weaken the state organization this morning. At left, Frank Weiners goes to work on a sidewalk outside the Wisconsin Telephone Co. building.

Lawrence to Allow Liquor on Campus

Lawrence University President Thomas S. Smith has approved a measure adopted by the Lawrence University Community Council (LUCC) which will permit students 21 and older to possess and consume alcoholic beverages in their residence hall room and at other properly supervised functions on campus.

Smith, who earlier vetoed an LUCC proposal regarding alcoholic beverages, said the new measure "is much stronger than its predecessor."

The approved legislation limits areas in which students 21 and older can possess or consume liquor, and contains safeguards for the protection of the majority which the president considers essential.

Smith said that the alcoholic beverage legislation brings university practice into accord with state and local laws in regard to possession and use of intoxicants.

The legislation does not apply to common public rooms except under supervised conditions and with prior written consent from the dean of student affairs.

It makes anyone who gives liquor to a minor subject to disciplinary action by the university and contains a reminder that students are subject to state and local regulations concerning possession and use of intoxicants.

Before the LUCC proposal was approved, only beer could be consumed under prescribed conditions and at regularly scheduled events in residence halls and in the Viking Room of the Memorial Union. Beer was not permitted in residential hall rooms.

Grand Chute Pollution Orders

Pollution abatement orders have been issued against North Star Trailer Park and two other businesses at Richmond Street and Northland Avenue in the Town of Grand Chute by Outagamie County.

The orders, delivered this morning, give the firms 30 days in which to correct violations of the county sanitary ordinance.

In addition to the trailer park, the orders were issued against Wisconsin Muffler Service, 2702 N. Richmond St., and Gordon Rohm, 918 W. Parkway Blvd., who operates a school bus storage and repair building on the southeast corner of Richmond and Northland.

The orders against the trailer park were issued to North Star Fuel and Supply Co. Inc. of which Robert Rohm is president. Rohm operates the trailer park.

According to the order issued, "poorly treated or untreated sewage" from the mobile home park septic tank runs by underground tile to a point north of the north end of Division Street where it forms a pool and then flows into a City of Appleton storm sewer.

The area was investigated after a complaint had been filed with Appleton. In tests made by the state on Sept. 22, fecal coliform counts made in the area of Michigan and Division streets registered 2.9 million and 2.8 million parts per 100 million parts of water.

Frank Charlesworth, county coordinator of public services, who issued the orders, said that a count of 500 per 100 million is considered the maximum safe amount of swimming water

Oscar Egger, state environmental engineer for District 3. Division of Health, said in his report, "It is apparent the trailer park and 12 homes in the area need municipal sewer service."

At the school bus storage and repair building, Charlesworth reported that on Nov. 10 dye was put into the sewage system and the next day the dye appeared in a ditch on the southwest side of Northland Avenue, "indicating the sewage was traveling through underground tile directly to the ditch."

At Wisconsin Muffler Service, dye was put in the sewerage system and it appeared in a ditch along Northland Avenue four hours later.

Both county and state laws forbid discharge of liquid wastes into ditches.

Wade Abern, son of Mr. and Mrs. Terry Abern, was one of 77 children in the Appleton public and private schools to receive a medical examination for hearing problems this week. The school system has done the screening and follow-up work annually since 1951, to make certain that hearing difficulties are not the cause of education problems. Dr. Darius K. Shahrokh is in charge of the examinations. (Post-Crescent Photo)

COG Backs Zone Change In Neenah

NEENAH — The Fox Valley Council of Governments (COG) has gone on record as favoring a zoning change on Winneconne Avenue which would open the way for a mini-shopping complex between Baldwin and Reddin streets.

Sam Napuck, a month ago had asked the plan commission for its feeling toward changing the present C-1 (commercial) zoning to the less restrictive commercial of C-2 so he could develop a strip between the two streets.

Although the plan commission hasn't made a decision on the zoning change, it has directed Napuck to contact adjacent property owners to see what their feeling toward the zoning change would be.

According to a COG letter, written by David Wendland, the request should be granted because the property is already zoned C-1.

However, Wendland suggests that if the change is not granted, the present zoning be dropped back to R-1 (single family).

Kaukauna-Menasha Lines

Power Link Reduces Costs

MENASHA — Despite cost increases for wages, materials and especially coal, the Menasha electric utility is trying to hold the line on power rate increases for customers.

A big reason it has been successful up until now is the recently-activated power interconnection with the Kaukauna power plant.

Menasha Utility Supt. James Taylor said the reason the utility has been able to hold with present rates despite spiraling costs is "because of improved efficiency, improved load factors and increased revenues" generated by the power interconnection.

Postpone Increase

About one year ago, Taylor said skyrocketing costs and other factors could require a rate increase within a year. The year is up, and Taylor says now that they "hope to postpone a rate increase of any kind for at least another year."

But Taylor recently told other public power officials in Washington that fuel costs increases may make future power rate increases unavoidable throughout the nation.

The interconnection with Kaukauna has allowed the local power plant to sell surplus power to that community. The revenues are produced on power that formerly was, in a sense, sitting idle at the local power plant.

The hookup has also produced increased efficiency for both Kaukauna and Menasha.

It went into operation early last spring. Before that, Menasha was one of the few municipal public utilities that still generated and consumed all of its own power.

At a recent meeting of the fuel supply committee of the American Public Power Association in Washington, D.C., Taylor said the price of coal delivered to Menasha has increased 43 per cent since Sept. 1, 1968, with the most drastic hike coming in Sept., 1969, of 35 per cent.

"Officials and management of municipal and other local public power systems throughout the nation have become alarmed at the way prices for coal, natural gas and fuel oil have shot up during the past year," he said.

He said publicly-owned electric systems will make every effort to minimize the impact of rising fuel costs on the consumer.

"But because fuel is such a major factor in the cost of electricity, accounting for about 35 per cent of all operation and maintenance costs, it may become impossible to avoid rate increases," he said.

"Such increased rates already have been implemented in some parts of the nation. Generally speaking, we may soon witness the biggest wave of electric rate increases in the history of the electric industry, if present trends continue in fuel costs, as well as costs of interest, material and labor."

Marked Reversal

"The prospective increases in electric rates would represent a marked reversal of previous trends, which have seen a gradual decline in the unit cost of electricity for several decades," he added.

Besides the huge fuel rate increases in Menasha, material costs have risen 12 per cent, and labor, nine per cent, in the past year.

The APPA's committee on fuel supply, of which Taylor is a member, met in Washington recently to press for federal action to relieve the present tight fuel supply and rapid price increases.

The APPA urges:

- The president use emergency power to allocate fuels which are in short supply.
- The president use emergency authority to impose price controls on fuel oil and coal.
- Abolition of oil import quotas, which cost American consumers an estimated $7 billion a year, according to the APPA.
- Vigorous antitrust investigation be initiated to determine if oil company takeovers of competing fuels violate federal antitrust laws.

Taylor said today the local utility is presently working with the state Public Service Commission to restructure present rate schedules to eliminate sharp increases in rate charges between for different size power consumers.

Twin Cities ABC to Aim at 3 High Schools

NEENAH-MENASHA — Housing, the number of students and committee responsibilities were the main items taken up Thursday night as the chairmen of the various committees involved with the ABC (A Better Chance) program met to dig into more specific areas of the program.

The aim is to bring ABC students to the Twin Cities next September to be in the three high schools.

$10,000 Needed

Mrs. Lois Sacher, speaking in the absence of Dick Powers of the finance committee, said that Powers estimated that 10 ABC students would require about $30,000 for the first year. Dartmouth College, which is the administrative home of ABC, might pick up about two-thirds of the cost which would leave about $10,000 to be raised.

James Dickson, acting secretary of the Neenah-Menasha ABC program, asked the chairmen if ten sounded like a good number of students to bring in next September.

Frank Hirst said that before the number of students is chosen, the group should first determine how many students want to go to a Catholic High School. The students may have preferences on public or private.

College Prep

It was pointed out that St. Mary's High School is a very good college preparatory school. Dickson said he hoped there could be three ABC students at St. Mary's, three at Menasha High School, and four at Shattuck High (two of which could attend Armstrong High when it opened).

The selection of the students was brought up, and Jerry Howard, an Appleton High School - East teacher who is involved with the ABC program in Appleton, said that Appleton chooses its ABC students from the list of students available. It is difficult, he said, to make a selection of students. "You will invariably never come out with the same individual as on paper," (referring to folders of information about the students).

"Somehow you manage to usually pick the right people, though," he added.

Hirst wondered why Appleton didn't let Dartmouth choose the students who would be coming. Howard said that Dartmouth might not know the local situation, and Appleton would prefer to make the decision itself.

On housing, Hirst said he would check out any potential housing for the boys and girls, and the group pretty well decided it would be two separate buildings, not coed.

Winnebago Unit Seeks Executive

OSHKOSH — "WORC will continue to work," said co-chairman William Neer this morning. The group, Winnebago Organization Restructuring Committee, is passing petitions to get a county executive elected.

WORC met last night to decide its future course: quit, hold onto the signatures but do nothing or keep on circulating petitions until the legally required 5,620 signatures are gathered. Neer said they now have 4,450 notarized signatures.

The group has been at it since last July. It has been an uphill fight against apathy and ignorance all the way. When a self-set Dec. 1 deadline passed without enough signatures in hand, throwing in the towel was a real possibility.

Oshkosh Chamber of Commerce executive Louis Michlin said it wanted to keep on plugging. Neenah-Menasha Chamber executive A. John Wiley recommended WORC be disbanded and the two chambers take over the job.

Neenah-Menasha League of Women Voters president Mari-gene Carpenter said her organization felt the already collected signatures represented quite an investment in time and effort and that petitioning should be continued. It has been the most active group in gathering the signatures.

Least active group so far in the work, the Oshkosh League of Women Voters, commented on the apathy the petition was met with in Oshkosh.

Neer didn't feel WORC should be disbanded. He asked the supporting organizations to give him an outline of their future efforts. The report is due in the middle of January.

Oshkosh has turned in about one-fourth of the signatures collected so far. Neer said he was not yet satisfied with the Oshkosh group's resolution. "I'm not optimistic. I'll wait until I see the petitions signed and in my hand."

Previous support for a city manager in Oshkosh has undercut efforts to back an elected executive in the city.

A motion by Michlin to submit the insufficient signatures to the county board in January was defeated. Supv. James Greiner, Town of Menasha, felt that turning in an incomplete petition would kill any chance for change in county government for another three to five years. Experiences of those at the meeting indicated it was not difficult to get signatures, just time-consuming. Each citizen must be educated before signing. The electorate is not aware of county government.

The petition will force the county board to create the executive position by resolution or put it on the ballot as a referendum question. The matter has been before the board 11 times in recent years, and been ducked every time.

Post Offices to Open Extra Hours For Holiday Rush

Area Post Offices will have additional business hours to accommodate the Christmas rush.

Thief Trades Pile Of Birch Logs For 30 Toothpicks

NEENAH — Somewhere in Neenah there is a thief with a sense of humor.

Ira Caple, 656 Stevens St., had a pile of birch wood behind his house to be used for his fireplace — at least it was there until Wednesday night.

Thursday he found the birch logs gone and in its place — about 30 birch toothpicks.

Winchester Balks At Sanitary District

WINCHESTER — Residents in the Town of Winchester are balking at signing a petition that is the first step in forming a sanitary district.

The petition has been out since last March. Town Chairman Earl Holverson promised the county sewage study committee it would be in by Jan. "sink or swim."

The trouble is that it very well might sink. "I doubt that there will be enough signatures," Holverson said.

100 Homes

The petition asks residents in the 100 or so homes along state highways 150 and 110 and in the town to hire engineers to plan for a treatment plant. Bed rock is too close to the surface in the area to give enough percolation for septic systems.

The Department of Natural Resources is only too aware of the situation and will issue abatement orders as soon as the Wolf River Drainage Basin plan is finished. DNR district engineer Alan Schoen said that was almost done and he would call a public hearing in the near future. After the hearing, orders would be issued.

The DNR was asked to be firmer in the matter by the county sewage study committee. John Kennedy, county sanitary inspector, has estimated treatment facilities would cost $250,000 for the unincorporated community. About 50 per cent of this could come from the state. Holverson said one of the problems was a lack of positive assurance that it would come from the state.

"The people here don't want to pay," he said.

Kennedy said the yearly cost to residents would be about the same as paid by people using a large municipal system. He says the area is in dire need of treatment facilities.

"We're not satisfied. We don't think Holverson has been too cooperative," said Kennedy.

County zoning officer Carl Mailhan agreed. "A deadline must be set. These people have to be pushed." He is drafting a letter to the DNR asking it to lean on them and on the Town of Black Wolf and the Town of Eureka.

Once orders are set progress is either made or the matter is turned over to the attorney general for prosecution. The cities of Neenah and Menasha are being readied for prosecution even now. Fines for non-compliance range from $10 to $5,000 per day of violation. The attorney general's office has four lawyers who do nothing but pollution work. They have collected fines in the past.

which was the main topic of the week-long conference.

"We got down to the nuts and bolts" of revenue sharing from different angles, Huber said. The conference served to "jell opinion" and provide an organization among legislators from the 50 states on revenue sharing, Froehlich said.

Alfonsi, Assembly majority leader, said that if he should not have taken the San Juan trip he should not have gone anywhere since he announced he would not seek re-election. "This is ridiculous," he remarked.

Alfonsi, who said he did not look on the trip as a junket or a vacation, said a "couple of Democrats didn't go because they were fearful of the repercussions."

"My feelings are hurt," Alfonsi declared. "I've never attended anything as a junket." He said he didn't go to the same type of conference two years ago in Hawaii.

His constituents were not concerned about his trip, he said. "The people up here say that after 20 years, Alfonsi deserves something," he added.

Alfonsi said there was "a lot to be gained" by attending the conference.

Olson, who was defeated after four terms in the Assembly, said he could still contribute to the state the knowledge he gained at the conference by attending public hearings.

He said the conference "helped centralize efforts on federal revenue sharing" which he said will help "keep the states financially solvent."

Nitschke said that because he was defeated in the election, he decided to pay his own way to San Juan.

Nitschke, who is speaker pro tem of the Assembly, said the Democrats "sent people who were not leaders or even chairmen of committees. It made me disgusted." The 22-year legislative veteran also repeated statements of some of the other conference delegates who held that the implications made by the news media regarding attendance by lame-duck lawmakers at the conference "were not justified."

"If you just go down there and want to raise hell, that's something different," Nitschke exclaimed.

Several other lame-duck legislators who went to Puerto Rico could not be reached for comment.

"I haven't heard from him since he's been down there," a woman in Belting's office said this morning. She said she was not sure if he was still in Puerto Rico.

The student council and student government classes at Hustisford (Dodge County) High School announced plans this week to assemble an opinion report on the issue.

Students said letters are being sent to legislators and news media representatives, requesting their views on the matter. It is part of a class project.

tion and play into the hands of Milwaukee County party leaders by making it easier for them to dominate the state party, which they already influence heavily, said Dana.

Longley, who said he had strong feelings on neither side of the issue, warned however that by withholding funds the local unit might find itself disenfranchised from the state party. The cost might include voting rights at the next convention, he said.

Boardman replied he expects the state party to "take us seriously" and try to make reforms. Local leaders agreed to invite state party officials to explain their side of the situation at a meeting here early next year.

Another Appleton member, Michael LaMarca, suggested that apathy among party members during the campaign season is related to "the believability of any political group." In failing to keep promises such as the fund pledges for local candidates, state party leaders have shown "that they are not to be believed," he contended.

Reforms might mean local party units would have "less trouble involving people" in party affairs, LaMarca suggested.

The resolution withholds 1971 dues until state party leaders "justify their use of those funds and their activities in such of Outagamie County."

It further asks the state party to take the necessary steps to clarify the Milwaukee County dues problem.

Longley explained that Milwaukee members justify their nonpayment because they operate a full-time headquarters that supplements the state headquarters office in Madison.

The group said it decided against raising the issue during last spring's party convention in Green Bay, in the interest of unity. Longley said he similarly had chosen not to make an issue of the party constitutional requirement for annual financial reports at the convention.

The county unit re-elected Longley chairman and named Thomas Lonsaw executive vice chairman; Thompson, 1st Assembly District vice chairman; Bowers, 3rd District vice chairman; Mrs. Betty Sanders, 2nd District vice chairman; Boardman secretary and Mrs. Gretchen Liethen treasurer.

The January party meeting will deal with issues in next spring's election of Appleton aldermen and of the first Outagamie County executive.

ected officials, is charged by the state, the federal requirements first would have to be applied to the state.

At Martin's meeting, committee members offered their own variations on the future organization and its boundaries but all indicated that their thoughts were very tentative. They agreed more discussion is important.

Appleton Mayor George Buckley said he temporarily favored a merger of the entirety of the two agencies, including the nine counties of Northeastern which reach to the Lake Superior shoreline. However, he agreed that Oshkosh City Council President Byron Murken has "a good point" that those northern counties have little in common with the Fox Valley metropolitan area.

Neenah Mayor Roman Hauser said he felt the organization could be "too widespread. He suggested that maybe Winnebago and Outagamie should form the agency, with Calumet being considered for membership.

Murken said that the group should consider forming an agency covering the eight counties in the governor's administrative district, including the four Lake Winnebago counties, Waupaca, Waushara, Green Lake and Marquette.

He favored forming a totally new agency and excluding the five northernmost counties in Northeastern — Langlade, Forest, Florence, Shawano and Menominee.

Orrin King, Winnebago County Board chairman, said he favored having some citizen members who might have much to contribute to an agency.

Panel Urges COG Funds Be Returned to Localities

Returning the $61,000 budgeted for membership in the Fox Valley Council of Governments (COG) to the individual local governments in the county was recommended Thursday by the Outagamie County Board's Executive Committee.

Phone Firm Proposes Rate Adjustments

Local Costs Not Affected by Plan For More Revenue

MADISON (AP)—The Wisconsin Telephone Co., seeking new rates designed to produce an additional $6.3 million in annual revenues, said local exchange rates for business and residence service would not be affected.

The firm submitted rate adjustments Thursday to the State Public Service Commission which authorized the higher earning level last July.

The proposed adjustments are limited to some long distance calls within Wisconsin and include both increases and decreases.

The telephone company said there would be no increase in rates for one to three-minute, customer-dialed calls made between 5 and 11 p.m. on weekdays and all day Saturday. A new night rate schedule would provide rates lower than now for similar customer-dialed calls between 11 p.m. and 8 a.m., Monday through Saturday and all-day Sunday.

Increases would apply to operator - handled calls at all times and customer-dialed calls during the day period. Increases in rates for operator-handled calls would range from three to 19 cents for the initial three-minute period, depending on the distance of the calls.

Rate increases for customer-

The recommendation will go to the full board for action on Jan. 12.

The action was recommended in the face of legal questions which ruled out the county becoming a member of COG or picking up the membership fees of the eight COG members from Outagamie County.

Reimbursement was recommended by Supv. Eugene Kloes, Appleton, after Kimberly Village President Alvin Fulcer filed an objection with the board, claiming there was, in effect, a double levy involved.

Since the county had levied taxes for the COG memberships and then did not use the funds, the member communities also had to levy for their memberships, Fulcer said.

At the same time, the Executive Committee instructed County Administrator Alvin Woehler to find out the procedures for withdrawing from both the Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission and COG.

This action apparently was in keeping with the previous board declarations that in 1972 the county would only participate in one regional planning agency.

Under the proposal, the $61,000 would be returned in the form of a cash refund to each town, village and city in the county on the basis of percentage of valuation represented by each community.

Appleton, for example, represents about 46 per cent of the county's valuation and would receive 46 per cent of the $61,000, or about $28,000.

The county board actually had increased its own budget by only $11,000 when it decided to attempt to take over the COG expense in the county. The other $50,000 was obtained by reducing the proposed contingency fund from $150,000 to $100,000.

However, the decision was made to return the entire amount to the communities. County Board Chairman Russell DeLaHunt, Kaukauna, said, "They will never believe we need that other $50,000."

DeLaHunt added, "We have accomplished what we wanted, a move toward consolidation (of the two planning agencies)."

The orchestra is composed of selected members from the Oshkosh Symphony Orchestra.

Soloists this year are from the University faculty — namely soprano Suzanne Roy, tenor Karl Brock and bass Curtis Dickson Jr. They're all concert singers of note and excellent musicians.

The production is a big one, an important Oshkosh contribution to the Christmas scene. It's a "something" worth going to hear and the tickets are free, but admission is by ticket so be sure to get one at Wilson Drug Store, Mueller-Potter Drug Store or at the Oshkosh Recreation office under whose sponsorship the community program is given.

'Brady Bunch' Plot Presents Boy Problem

BY TV SCOUT

6:30-7 Channel 9 — The youngest boy on the Brady Bunch finally convinces the members of a tree club that he should be allowed to join. But when he climbs up, he falls and injures his ankle. Some parts of being a patient are fun: like the gifts he gets, but when he's up and about again, the family discovers Bobby has been left shy about heights. How to get him back to normal?

6:30-7:30 Channels 2-7 — The Interns has an episode which was the second one filmed and one in which guest Kaz Garas, as a scarred prisoner, out acts the regulars. Dr. Petit (Stephen Brooks) is at the prison doing research for a space program when he becomes interested in the case of Garas, whose scars are deeper than the one on his face. Meanwhile, back at the hospital, Dr. Thorpe (Sandra Smith), is trying to break through to another kind of prisoner, a little, abandoned girl who refuses to speak.

7:30-8 Channels 11-9 — The Partridge Family has some good-natured fun with Women's Lib as son Keith, interested in a feminist, sort of promises that the family will sing at a POW (Power of Women) meeting. The family finds itself in the middle of turmoil, with the Morality Watchdogs horrified at the thought the Partridges are aiding POW.

7:30-9 Channel 5 — Hermione Gingold plays Hamlet on The Name of the Game. At least she recites the "Oh, that this too, too solid flesh would melt" soliloquy. The story concerns a city councilman who wants to ruin a small theater (owned by Miss Gingold) so that he can buy the property, which is needed for a planned shopping center. Arthur Hill plays this man, with Michael Callan as his tool, the young man who is to "run" the theater.

9-10 Channel 5 — Bracken's World examines the life and times of a child actor, black and bewildered and found by Bracken himself to play the lead in a TV series. George Epell plays this lad, with Diana Sands excellent as his mother. Edmund Cambridge as her nice husband and the lad's step-father and Rupert Crosse (of "The Reivers") as the boy's shiftless, trouble-making real father.

Transform Green Frog Into Costume Jewelry

BY CAPPY DICK

A funny green frog can be turned into a novel piece of costume jewelry.

"Gem" Eye

Look for a picture of such a frog and cut it out, or draw a frog yourself and color it green.

Paste the picture on a piece of cardboard and cut around it. To the back of the cardboard tape a small safety pin as shown in figure 2.

The final step is to glue a small, red imitation jewel to the frog's head for an eye as in figure 1.

This completes the brooch and it is ready to wear on your coat as the girl is doing in the illustration.

The same process may be used for making a pin featuring almost any other small creature. Either find a suitable picture in a picture book or magazine, or draw the picture yourself and take the same steps called for in preparing the frog brooch.

The manufacture of these special, one-of-a-kind brooches is so easy any girl could own a collection of them, a different one for each day of the week.

Your Money's Worth Some Goods, Services Prices Show Decline

BY SYLVIA PORTER
Our cost of living when 1970 ends will be running about 6 per cent ahead of December a year ago — but as always, an overall figure such as this will obscure nearly as much as it will reveal. As always, price movements have been highly selective. And as always — even in a year of galloping inflation such as this has been — prices of some types of goods and services have actually fallen.

Just to illustrate, while prices of new cars are about 5 per cent higher than only three months ago, prices of used cars are down more than 1 per cent. While prices of cereals and bakery products are 2 per cent higher than in mid-summer, fruits and vegetables are 6 per cent cheaper. While shoes are up 10 per cent, seamless hose is down.

Even more dramatic, while the cost of food you buy to eat at home is 4 per cent more expensive than a year ago, the cost of food you eat in restaurants is up almost 7 per cent. The increase in the overall average for food of 4 per cent certainly doesn't reflect your true squeeze if you must eat out a lot.

Home Costs Up
While rent is up a painful 4.2 per cent from late 1969, the cost of owning your own home is up a startling 10.4 per cent — a reflection of this year's soaring mortgage interest rates and costs of home maintenance and repairs.

Transportation costs are up 6.2 per cent. But the cost of public transportation — which the poor must rely on almost exclusively — has climbed a brutal 15.4 per cent. An unemployed worker doesn't go job hunting in a new car; he rides the subways and buses.

Your health and recreation costs are now rising at 5.6 per cent a year. But indoor movie admissions are rising twice as rapidly. Golf greens fees also are far outpacing the general rise in recreation costs. At the same time, though, in the category of recreation goods and services, some major items have declined: notably portable tape recorders, movie cameras, TV repairs, film developing.

And a final illustration: behind the national 6 per cent rise in living costs, prices are up 7.5 per cent in New York but up "only" 3.9 per cent in Houston.

Here are two tables which will highlight for you which items have risen the most of this year of recession-inflation and which have declined the most (period mid-'69 to mid-'70):

What Has Risen

The Most	Pct. Rise
Cabbage	41.1
Green peppers	35.1
Grapefruit	32.2
Onions	28.1
Celery	26.1
Coffee, can and bag	21.4
Turkey	17.9
Local transit fares	16.2
Potatoes	14.7
Auto insurance rates	14.6
Repainting living, dining rms.	12.8
Parking fees, private, municipal	12.7
Semi-private hospital rooms	12.4

What Has Declined

The Most	Pct. Drop
Gasoline, reg., premium	18.0
Nylon seamless hose	12.0
Apples	10.4
Frozen orange juice concentrate	8.5
TV repairs, pict. tube replace.	4.5
Rib roast	4.4
Sirloin steak	4.1
Frying chicken	3.3

Police Investigate Theft of Safe

KIMBERLY — The theft of a portable safe that had contained $466 in cash is being investigated by police after the safe was found piled near railway tracks at the end of Wilson Street.

The safe, taken from the Village Inn, 404 E. Kimberly Ave., was found by railroad men Tuesday, who called village police.

Police notified Kenneth Muthig, owner of the restaurant, who had not yet discovered the burglary. Entry into the building was gained by forcing a side door sometime Monday night or early Tuesday.

Examination Shows Car Dealer Employee Died of Heart Attack

A postmortem examination has revealed that a 38-year-old employee of Cloud Buick Inc., 2445 W. College Ave., died of a heart attack Tuesday afternoon.

Ouagame County Deputy Coroner C. J. Schink ordered the exam for Earl W. Freiburger, 1012 E. Taft Ave., who collapsed at the firm shortly after noon Tuesday after eating lunch. He was dead on arrival at Appleton Memorial Hospital.

Freiburger worked at the firm for the past eight years as an auto reconditioner in the used car department. His body was released to the Valley Funeral Home.

Tax Increase Certain; Timing Is the Question

MADISON (AP) — Patrick J. Lucey, who becomes governor Jan. 4, says it appears the only major opinion conflict he has with Gov. Warren P. Knowles concerning taxes involves the question of when to raise them.

Knowles, retiring from the governor's post, has said the new Democratic governor and the legislature should consider raising taxes in 1971. Lucey, a Democrat, has said he would like to postpone increases until 1972 if possible.

"I am glad to know that Gov. Knowles still agrees with me that the fiscal mess of this state makes a tax increase inevitable," Lucey said in a statement.

"Apparently our only disagreement is in the matter of timing," he said.

The governor-elect issued the statement during the opening round of a series of public hearings he is conducting on the outlook for the state's 1971-72 fiscal budget.

There is an estimated $500 million gap between budget requests and anticipated revenue, and Lucey has said the gap is going to have to be trimmed.

This Is Rather Funny

Seventy years ago, this country was a much different land than it is today. It was a country where a man in the West, seeing another man up to his neck in mud said, "Don't worry partner, I'll give you a hand," to which the mud man replied, "Don't worry, I've got a horse under me."

Lull in Action Again Results In No Deaths of Americans

SAIGON (AP) — Field reports indicate no Americans were killed on the battlefields of Indochina Thursday, the U.S. Command reported today. It was the ninth time this year U.S. forces have gone through an entire day without suffering a fatality in combat, spokesmen said.

No significant action was reported for U.S. forces, underlining the steady scaling down of American ground operations. And the U.S. Command reported only five North Vietnamese and Viet Cong rocket and mortar attacks from 8 a.m. Thursday to 8 a.m. Friday, one of the lightest shelling days of the war.

However, South Vietnamese forces reported a total of 81 North Vietnamese killed deep in the Mekong Delta across the Cambodian border northwest of Saigon.

South Vietnamese troops sweeping through the U Minh forest, a long time enemy base area deep in the Delta, said they killed 30 enemy soldiers with the help of helicopter gunships. Field reports said one South Vietnamese soldier was killed and 15 were wounded.

Fighting raged for the second day near the Cambodian town of Krok about 85 miles northwest of Saigon.

British Public Getting Angrier and Angrier

LONDON (AP) — Negotiations to end the British power slowdown were scheduled to resume today, but meanwhile the public was getting more and more angry.

Farmer Harold Stewart drove a load of liquid manure to a power station near Crewe and sprayed it over the walls and foyer.

Someone hurled a brick through the window of an electricity showroom in London. Power stations received thousands of abusive telephone calls and numerous bomb threats. An electrician's wife was threatened with kidnapping.

Police were summoned to the Merseyside and North Wales Electricity Board headquarters; an engineer reported two men threatened "to work him over."

The General Dental Practitioners' Association recommended that members not alter their appointment schedules to fit in power workers made free for treatment by their five-day-old slowdown, the result of adhering to each and every regulation in a bid for higher wages.

A Nottingham real estate agent said he wouldn't sell houses to novices and baker Robin Prior declared his shop off limits to them.

In London, 250 housewives said they wouldn't pay the $2.40 standing charge on electric bills because of the "enormous inconvenience suffered."

A patient died at London's Westminster Hospital when attendants failed to get a heart stimulating machine up four flights in time to treat him. The periodic power shutdown had immobilized the elevators.

Representatives of the Electricity Council and 125,000 members of four electrical unions were still far apart. The unions want raises averaging $13.92 a week, a 25-30 per cent hike over the current average of $57.60, and the council has offered $4.60.

U.S. Industry Looks to Women

CHICAGO (AP) — A survey of 191 businesses across the country indicates that most will hire fewer men and more women from the college class of 1971, a Northwestern University official said Thursday.

The University's director of placement, Frank S. Endicott, said the study shows starting salaries for men will increase about 2 per cent above 1970 levels while salaries for women may jump by 4 per cent.

The survey indicates, however, the starting salaries offered to women are almost invariably lower than those offered to men with the same training.

Endicott said the survey shows that 168 firms that employed 20,125 male bachelor-degree graduates in 1970 plan to hire 17,334 in 1971. They hired 2,601 men with master's degrees in 1970 but plan to employ 2,151 next year.

Endicott said the survey showed that 120 companies that hired 1,435 women college graduates in 1970 plan to hire 1,612 in 1971, an increase of 11 per cent.

Over all, fewer college men than in 1970, Endicott said. He said reasons given by employers include continuation of the business slowdown, pressure to reduce costs, and a decrease in employee turnover.

He said that 53 of the businesses polled thought the business outlook for 1971 was better than in 1970, 99 said it was about the same and 39 thought it was not as good.

A total of 108 companies plan to contact fewer colleges in their 1971 recruiting efforts, he said.

The study gave the following sample average monthly salaries offered to 1971 college graduates:

- Engineering: $885 men, $884 women.
- Accounting: $845 men, $793 women.
- Liberal Arts: $690 men, $688 women.
- Mathematics-Statistics: $806 men, $776 women.
- Economics-Finance: $768 men, $700 women.

Endicott said that of 126 firms which answered questions about why women graduates are generally offered lower salaries than men, 25 attributed the practice to discrimination and prejudice, 24 said women want only short-term employment, 20 said women choose to accept jobs which pay less, 15 said the supply of women graduates exceeds demand, 14 said women cannot perform as well as men and 12 said women prefer jobs with less responsibility.

FCC Hits Phone Rate Hike Bid

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal agency, charging the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. with widespread discriminatory hiring and promotion practices, has asked the Federal Communications Commission to reject the giant utility's request for a rate increase.

In an unprecedented action, the Equitable Employment Opportunities Commission said AT&T hires almost no blacks or Spanish Americans in its 24 operating companies.

Women are confined to low paying positions and in a few cases are paid less than men in comparable jobs, the EEOC said.

In a petition filed Thursday, the EEOC said the alleged practices violate federal law, including the Federal Communications act, plus presidential executive orders.

Nixon Picks Wealthy Texan To be Ambassador to U.N.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. George Bush, a Texas millionaire with little experience in foreign affairs, is President Nixon's choice as United Nations ambassador, according to sources.

The current ambassador, Charles W. Yost, did not immediately comment on the report, the latest of several that he was leaving.

Nixon told the nation in a broadcast news conference Thursday night the White House would announce a "high administration" appointment Friday for the 46-year-old two-term representative, who lost his bid for a Senate seat last month.

neither Yost nor the White House confirmed it at the time.

That Nixon intended to replace the 67-year-old career diplomat was first evident in published reports last month that presidential counselor Daniel Patrick Moynihan would be named to the post.

Bush is an economics graduate who became a millionaire in the oil business. In 1953, he helped found the Zapata Petroleum Corp. of Midland, Tex. A year later, he became president of Zapata Off-Shore Co., and held that post until 1966 when he resigned to run for Congress.

Nursing Home Claims Medicaid Rules Invalid

MADISON (AP) — Rules used by the state to establish Medicaid payment rates for Wisconsin nursing homes are invalid because they are "vague and uncertain," a nursing home contended in a suit filed Wednesday.

The Circuit Court action was initiated by Lakeshore Manor Inc. of Madison, a 385-bed licensed nursing home which specializes in caring for mentally retarded patients.

Robert A. Pallafio of Milwaukee, vice president and secretary of the firm, said the home is unable to decide how the rules are applied in determining charges.

Sanders Fires 66 in Bahama'

Palmer Shoots 68 In Bid to Become Top Money Winner

FREEMPORT, The Bahamas (AP) — "Well," Arnold Palmer admitted, "it beats getting poked in the eye with a sharp stick and I've had a lot of that lately."

Palmer had just taken a four-under-par 68 in the first round of the $130,000 Bahama Island Open golf tournament Thursday and was two strokes off the pace set by sleepy Doug Sanders.

Sanders, an admitted playboy, had overslept. He didn't get up in time to shave and stumbled around the 6,660 yard par 72 Emerald Course at the Kings Inn and Golf Club with a stubble of beard and bleary eyes.

But he jerked his game together on the back side taking a hole in one and two consecutive birdies for a sparkling 66 and the first round lead.

No Time "Get up in time to shave?" he asked when questioned. "I didn't even get up in time to throw up. My game just isn't geared to early morning rounds."

He was one stroke ahead of husky John Jacobs, a Vietnam veteran and younger brother of tour veteran Tommy Jacobs who had a 67 including four ducuses.

The group at 69 included veterans Art Wall and Gardner Dickinson along with Chris Blocker, Rolf Deming and Jerry McGee. Lee Trevino, attempting to defend his spot atop the money winning list, had a 73 and was well back. PGA champ Dave Stockton had even more trouble taking a 77.

Eyes on Arnie But Palmer, the games greatest gate attraction and all-time leading money winner, was the man everyone was watching. He's attempting to keep alive his 15-year string of having won at least one tournament a year in this the last event of the season. And he has an outside chance of taking the No. 1 money winning spot.

"I'd like that," he said. "I haven't been the leading money winner in a long time."

Palmer had seven birdies and three bogeys in his round and needed only 28 strokes on the green.

Cyclones Bow To UWGB's Jayvee Quint

GREEN BAY — A late spurt by the UW-Green Bay junior varsity defeated the Fox Valley Campus Cyclones, 92-79, Thursday at the Brown County Arena.

Green Bay's domination of the boards was the telling factor as the Phoenix hauled in 34 rebounds to the Cyclones 23. The Cyclones record dipped to 3-4.

The margin of victory didn't indicate the closeness of the game as the Phoenix spurred for eight points in the last :50 of the contest.

UWGB held a 44-43 edge at the intermission. Bob Devas paced the winners with 30 points.

Steve Krueger paced the Cyclones, with 21 points.

Ex-Bears Return to Wrigley Field

Kuechenberg, Amsler Give Packers Extra Inspiration

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — There usually is little need to "psyche" the Packers for exchange with the Bears, their favorite enemies for the last half century.

But, should they be in need of inspiration, it is close at hand this week as they prime for Sunday afternoon's 104th imbroglio with the Monsters of the Midwest.

Rudy Kuechenberg and Marty Amsler, two ex-Bruins who have gone straight, are impatiently awaiting the impending invasion of the Windy City. Their mood would appear certain to rub off on their colleagues.

Although Sunday's struggle was still 72 hours distant, Kuechenberg already was uttering warlike sounds in the Packers dressing room Thursday following the last major workout of the week.

Explosive Detroit Kuechenberg, who made an explosive debut in Packer silks in the Bays' first encounter with the Bears Nov. 15, was getting himself ready by singing a chorus of the Bear fight song, "Bear Down, Chicago Bears," with something akin to a sneer.

"All I have to do is step in Wrigley Field and I go nuts," Rudy volunteered. "It will seem funny coming out of the wrong locker room Sunday...I mean the right locker room."

Rudy, ticketed for special teams duty at this point, added, "I hope we get way ahead so I can play a little linebacker...I've been gunning for that all year."

"I really can't tell you what the feeling is," he said with quiet fervor. "I don't know what the reaction will be in Chicago either...I have a lot of friends in Chicago."

Rudy, whose thunderous tackling of kickoff returner Cecil Turner endeared himself to the Packer faithful in the Bears' November visit to Lambeau Field, summed up, "I f I can do as well as I did in the first game, I'll be all right."

Amsler, like Kuechenberg a devastating performer on the special teams, admits Sunday's match also holds special significance for him.

"A Little Bit Better"

"I kind of prepare myself a little bit better to play the Bears," he admitted. "If I get a chance to play, I want to have a very excellent performance."

"One of the things that sticks in their craws is that anybody who has ever left the Bears has come back to haunt them."

Marty is quick to note, however, No. 1 is to win the game as a team...There are certain things you want to do individually but No. 1 has to be a complete team effort. Whatever concerns you may have personally have to be secondary.

"Of course, I try to tell our defense what to expect from the Bears offensively and tell the offense what to look for defense."

Another Cliff Hanger?

Raiders Meet Chiefs in Key AFC Game Saturday

By ED SCHUYLER JR.

Associated Press Sports Writer

The Oakland Raiders, already the National Football League champions in winning cliff hangers, play the Kansas City Chiefs Saturday and the winner should end up as the king of the mountain in the American Conference's Western Division.

The battle of the bitter rivals will depend on the kicking of the Chiefs' accurate Jan Stenerud and the Raiders man of the second, George Blanda. The kicking of the 43-year-old Blanda has provided Oakland with three victories and a tie in the over-all space of 16 seconds.

A victory will put the winner a game in front with an 8-3-2 record with one game left. The two clubs played a tie in their first meeting.

Browns Meet Dallas

In another game Saturday, this one also on national television, Cleveland, 6-6, tied for first in the AFC's Central Division with Cincinnati will host Dallas, 8-4 and tied for second with the New York Giants in the National Conference's Eastern Division.

The Giants 8-4, will play at St. Louis, 8-3-1, and first in the NFC East, Sunday. In other Sunday games, Cincinnati, 6-6, is at Houston, 3-8-1; San Francisco, 8-3-1, at New Orleans, 2-9-1; Baltimore, 9-2-1, at Buffalo, 3-8-1; New York Jets, 4-8 at Miami, 8-4; San Diego, 4-6-2, at Denver, 5-7; Green Bay, 6-6 at Chicago, 4-8; Philadelphia, 2-9-1, at Washington, 4-8; Minnesota, 10-2 at Boston, 2-10, and Pittsburgh, 5-7, at Atlanta, 3-7-2.

In a big game on television Monday night, Detroit, 8-4, is at Los Angeles, 8-3-1, and tied with San Francisco for first in the NFC West.

Cliff Hanger

Besides Blanda's kicking Oakland also counts on the passing arm of Daryle Lamonica who also has figured in the Raiders' cliff-hanging tactics. Last Sunday, Lamonica threw a 33-yard touchdown pass to Warren Wells with one second left in a 14-13 victory over the Jets.

Lawrence, Coe Battle for Early MC Cage Lead

BY RON WITT

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Lawrence University, long an also-ran in Midwest Conference basketball competition but listed this season among the loop's darkhorse candidates, could be alone at the top of the standings after this weekend's play.

As an unusual circumstance as that might seem, it could come to pass simply if Coach John Poulson's cagers can LU's Strat Warden, who is the top returning point-maker in the conference, had a 29-point effort in his team's win over Coe last year. Warden finished the season with a 19.1 average, second only to Coe's graduated Ron Barnes (20.3).

Cornell, which took last year's title with a 13.5 mark, should be plenty tough again this season since its entire starting lineup returns. Keys to the offense are veterans Ed Ashmore (6-6), who averaged 14.2, and Ron Nussbaum (6-7) who averaged 11.8 in gaining All-Conference honors.

Ripon's Redmen should be in the thick of things with three junior lettermen, Ron Cooper, Donn Wiese and Mike Saloun all back along with senior Jeff Trickey. Wiese and Saloun, both 6-6, mount a rugged Ripon attack on the boards and carry 14.4 and 13.3 averages, respectively, from last year.

Six lettermen at St. Olaf provide a bright outlook for Ole fortunes. Dave Finholt, a 6-6 senior who was a first-team all-league choice last year, is the premier player back. Finholt finished fifth in the '69-70 campaign with an 18.2 average.

Steve Eilers, a 17.6 average scorer last year, heads the returnees at Monmouth. Nate Moore, an all-state prep-player from Illinois, and Les Dummire are tabbed as top sophomore prospects.

Walt Davis and Dave Wood, who combined to average 24 points between them last year, pace the Knox quietest in the coming season. Other veterans include Terry Denoma and Dan Taylor.

Bob Burnett, an all-league choice as a sophomore, guides Grinnell fortunes. Burnett was the third-best scorer in the MC in 1969-70 with an 18.7 mark.

Carleton coach Jack Thurnblad must look for help on the boards since the Carls' "big man" is expected to be 6-3 Mark Wheeler, the lone returning starter.

Beloit will be hampered in the early season because top scorer Tom Brenn is recovering from knee surgery. Brenn hit 18.2 points per game last season and gained an all-conference berth. Larry Johnston is the only returning starter.

MIDWEST CONFERENCE (Final 1969-70 Standings)

Saturday's Game:
Lawrence at Coe.

knock off a Coe College Saturday afternoon at Cedar Rapids, Ia.

LU would then own sole possession of first place since none of the other MC teams open conference warfare until the weekend of Jan. 8-9.

This is not to say the Vikes aren't in for a rugged battle against their Iowa foes. Last season, the Kohawks finished in second place with a 12.6 mark, one game behind champion Cornell, and four lettermen from that squad return to coach Dave Etienne.

Veteran monogram winners back for Coe include 6-5 Dave Gale, 6-2 Steve Helfrich, 6-1 Robbie Clark, and 6-0 Blair Casey. The first three players plus 6-5 Randy Johnson and 6-6 Dave McCulla form the starting lineup.

Scores 27 Points

Johnson, a highly-touted sophomore, drilled 27 points in Coe's 81-63 opening win over Simpson College. The Kohawks, who were picked for fourth place in the pre-season poll by the league's coaches, have another non-league tilt against Wartburg tonight before meeting LU Saturday.

Lawrence and Coe met twice last year with the Kohawks winning on their own floor, 88-66, and the Vikes coping a 67-65 thriller at Alexander gym.

Lawrence hopes against the Kohawks are bolstered by the eligibility of 6-7 John Linnen, a transfer from the University of Michigan. Linnen did not play in the Vikes' recent 69-55 opening loss to Dominican.

Receiving honorable mention were Wisconsin tight end Larry Mialik, tackle Jim Delisle and other all-time White Sox great who died last summer, catcher Ray Schalk.

ively...In fact, I did that for our first game with them.

"If we can continue to play like we did in Pittsburgh we should win. I know it's going to be a tough game but we just have to go out and be the domineering force in the game.

Out-hit Steelers

"We went out and out-hit the Steelers last Sunday and that's what made the difference. As long as we take it to the other team — you can't let them take it to you — we'll be all right."

Getting back to his original subject, the bespectacled defensive end confided, "I always try to prepare myself equally for every game, but there's always a little more incentive behind this one."

"The biggest thing, though, is that a victory would put us over .500 and that's No. 1 right now."

PACKER PATTERN — The Packers drilled in Lambeau Field behind locked doors Thursday but Coach Phil Bengtson said a desire for secrecy was not involved in the transfer from their customary site, the South Oneida Street practice field.

"We'll probably get back down below tomorrow," he said. "It was just that the practice field was a little slippery yesterday. You can get a little more work done up here where you're not sliding around."

"We will probably be playing on a frozen field in Chicago, however, so we probably will move back to the practice field so we'll be accustomed to operating on that kind of a surface."

The Packers' Bart Starr, Carroll Dale and Willie Wood are among 78 players — three from each of the National Football League's 26 teams — who have been nominated to compete for the NFL Man-of-the-Year award.

The Packer representatives, and their fellow contestants, have been selected by the Pro Football Hall of Fame, Canton, Ohio, on the basis of overall playing performance and civic involvement.

Scholarship Fund

The Man-of-the-Year award, established by Vitalis, calls for a $25,000 scholarship fund to be set up in the name of the honoree in the city where his team is located.

A bronze "Gladiator" trophy and a 1971 luxury car also will be presented to the winner at the NFL All-Star game in Los Angeles Jan. 24.

Ex-Packer Bob Hyland, dealt to the Bears in the Mike McCoy exchange, is the only Bruin who has started every exhibition and regular season game for the Chicagoans this year.

Hyland, presently stationed at center, could find himself at tackle if the Bears incur any more injuries in the offensive line... Jeff Curchin and Wayne Mass presently are the only tackles available and, in the event of another casualty, Hyland would move to tackle and tight end Rich Coady to center.

$1,000 Gift Pays Off Bonus Boosts Bucyk, Bruins

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS — They gave Johnny Bucyk a grand—and it took Boston's grand old man just one game to repay the Bruins.

The National Hockey League club, in recognition of the 1,000th regular-season game he was about to play in his 16-year career, presented the 35-year-old winger with a crisp $1,000 bill Thursday night.

Bucyk then went out and earned his pay, slamming home two goals and setting up four others as the Bruins exploded for six third-period goals and battered Buffalo 8-2 to regain sole possession of first place in the East Division.

Surprise Action Taken Big Ten Clears Way For Possible Use of Facilities by Pros

CHICAGO (AP) — The way has been cleared by the Big Ten for possible regular season use by the pros of conference facilities.

The surprise action came Thursday at the close of the conference's three-day business meetings.

The move, which must be reviewed by individual school faculty groups before final approval at the March sessions, permits a Big Ten school to use its own discretion in granting use of facilities any time 10 days before or seven days following the conference season in the same sport.

Liberty Bowl Pits Colorado Against Tulane

Montana to Face N. Dakota State In Camellia Test

Colorado defends its Liberty Bowl title Saturday against a Tulane team whose players weren't even born the last time the Green Wave took part in post-season play as college football's bowl barrage begins.

The Buffaloes, quarterbacked by Jim Bratten, rumbled over Alabama 47-33 in last year's classic in Memphis, Tenn. But Bratten is a questionable starter for the 12th annual Liberty Bowl since injuring a knee in practice earlier this week.

Tulane, with a 7-4 record compared to Colorado's 6-4, is making its first bowl appearance since 1940 when Texas A&M nosed out the Green Wave 14-13 in the Sugar Bowl. Saturday's clash is the first ever between the Greenies and the Buffs.

In Sacramento, Calif., Montana's Grizzlies are sharpening their claws for their Camellia Bowl clash with North Dakota State.

The Boardwalk, Pecan, Grantland Rice, Orange Blossom and NAIA Champion bowls round out Saturday's major action.

Former UW Assistant Mike McGee Named Duke Football Coach

DURHAM, N. C. (AP) — Mike McGee set a goal nearly a decade ago and saw it fulfilled with his appointment as head football coach at his alma mater, Duke University.

McGee, 32, head coach at East Carolina University the past year, was named Thursday to succeed Tom Harp, who was fired by the Duke Athletic Council.

McGee told a news conference one of his goals and desires was to return to Duke as coach.

"I'm indeed happy to be home," he said.

Duke, once a football powerhouse, "will return to the winning tradition," McGee predicted. He said the future for the Blue Devils looks great.

McGee, former pro football star with the St. Louis Cardinals, served as an assistant coach at Duke for three years. He later was an assistant at Wisconsin and Minnesota before coming to East Carolina last December. His team this season had a 3-8 record.

McGee, a guard, graduated at Duke in 1960. He captained the 1959 team and won the Outland Trophy as the outstanding lineman in the nation.

In announcing McGee's appointment, Duke Athletic Director Eddie Cameron said, "He is an exacting man who will expect, and get, the most from his players. But at the same time, he knows that football is part of a larger tradition here at Duke. That tradition, we believe, is one of greatness in whatever a student who comes to us is to do with his life."

Mando Ramos KO's Rojas

Celebrated Grudge Match Ends Early In Sixth Round

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Mando Ramos knocked out former stablemate Raul Rojas with a sharp left hook to the chin at 48 seconds of the sixth round Thursday night in the celebrated grudge match between the two 135-pound fighters from San Pedro, Calif.

Ramos, 29-4-0, former world lightweight champion, was a 3-to-1 favorite over Rojas, 33-5-2, former featherweight and junior lightweight king. They developed a dislike for each other during sparring sessions which often had to be cut short.

A crowd of 8,281 at Olympic Auditorium that paid $54.44 watched Ramos knock Rojas to his haunches with the steaming hook Rojas tried to pull himself up by grabbing the ropes while referee John Thomas counted him out.

The scheduled 10-rounder began with Rojas dominating the first round. Ramos didn't take command until the third when he peppered his opponent with left jabs and right crosses to the head.

Rojas' speed helped him evade heavy blows in the fourth but a straight left to the face seemed to puff his eye in the fifth.

Because they tied their first meeting, in The Ben Davidson Save Game, the team that wins here goes to the playoffs and, if game, Miami wins its last two, the Patriots 16

There is no logical reason to expect Pats to come close, but logic never influenced my prognostications in the past. Why start now? Even if he's only cheerleading from the bench, Joe Kapp will be a factor. Why should the Vikes risk Cuozzo or anyone on bumpy Harvard turf? Denver Broncos 16 — San Diego Chargers 14

Only because Denver is home, and Chargers will be chilly. Cincinnati Bengals 24 — Houston Oilers 10

Only because Bengals are in contention. Cincinnati will know how Browns fared against Dallas day before.

San Francisco 49ers 35 — New Orleans Saints 13

Atlanta scared San Francisco to death last Sunday. Perhaps 49ers learned a lesson. Miami Dolphins 20 — New York Jets 10

Jets have injuries, and when they are loosest it's hardest to predict what Jets will do. But this is Miami's Playoff Game. New York Giants 27 — St. Louis Cardinals 17

Why can't Giants upset Cards? They beat them once, can again, especially if Jerry Stovall is hurting. Analyzing any game, it's wise to consider which team has the best quarterback. Which is why the Giants can pull off an upset! Detroit Lions 17 — Los Angeles Rams 10

Lions can upset improving Rams, but it's a tall order, especially since the game is at Los Angeles. On paper the Lions have a better offense. But they aren't playing on paper.

Youth Problems Are Society's Problems

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — The problems of Wisconsin youth are neither unique to Wisconsin nor unique to youth, according to testimony Thursday at Gov. elect Patrick J. Lucey's second of seven budget hearings. The session dealt with youth and their problems.

And although the problems are intensified in youth, they are a reflection of society in general, testimony indicated.

Drug abuse and traffic safety attracted the major share of attention as university experts, doctors, a psychiatrist outlined the problems and state agencies reported on their programs aimed at solutions. None of the agency spokesmen, however, claimed his department's efforts would provide the ultimate solution.

A three-pronged effort on drug abuse control was indicated, involving education, law enforcement and treatment.

The medical men — Dr. Joseph Benforado of the University of Wisconsin, Dr. Philip Green, a UW medical student in psychiatry involved in a voluntary student health service, and Dr. Basil Jackson, a Milwaukee psychiatrist, all emphasized the need for solving the problems that encourage youth to turn to drugs for escape.

Need Alternative
Benforado cited the need for alternative sources of satisfaction for youth and described the results in a Boston study in which former drug-dependent youths were transferred to a program of transcendental meditation.

Green described and endorsed a coordinated Phoenix, Ariz., area program of education, community training and treatment.

Dr. Jackson called for the equal availability of treatment programs throughout the state and an increase in competent personnel. He also said that youth must have a role in decision-making so they feel they have a stake in society and will not choose to withdraw.

On the agency side, William Kahl, superintendent of public instruction, described progress in a drug education program that is headed by one man in the department. He is currently involved in coordinating teacher training programs and curriculum development. In answer to a question posed by Lucey, Kahl said there are enough people trained in drug education, in fact, not enough to put one in every high school and junior high school in the state.

In contrast, Atty. Gen. Robert Warren pointed out his department's request for doubling the narcotics investigation team from the 21 men approved and employed last June to 42 in the next biennium. Warren told the governor elect that although he is involved in enforcement, he does not regard it as the only means of meeting the needs of the state.

Since the narcotics program got under way, Warren said about 240 arrests have been made through cooperative efforts with his department, local and federal authorities.

Wilbur Schmidt, secretary of the department of health and social services, told the new governor that facilities at Winnebago and Mendota state hospitals are not adequate to treat the increasing number of drug-related admissions. His budget for the new biennium, he said, will include a request for facilities and program expansion.

Traffic safety problems are doubly severe for youthful drivers who amount to only 13 percent of the licensed drivers, but are involved in 24 per cent of the accidents and an equal proportion of the fatal accidents, according to James Karns of the State Division of Motor Vehicles. Karns said several programs have been developed in recent years to identify and counsel problem drivers, including youths. He supported a uniform drinking age, possibly age 19, a strengthened implied consent law, and driver education despite the fact there is no evidence that driver education actually helps prevent accidents.

Dr. James Weyant of Sheboygan Falls called the drinking driver the number one highway problem. He said there is need for identification and labeling of drinkers and lowering the blood alcohol level that is admitted as conclusive evidence of drunkenness to .10. It is now .15.

One means of saving lives on the highways, he said, would be an improvement in emergency medical services. He compared the services, especially in rural areas of Northern Wisconsin, with "garbage collection." The bodies are picked up and delivered to hospitals, he said, and then it is hoped miracles can be performed. He suggested the use of helicopters in emergency medical service. Karns said helicopters are too expensive to be used for medical emergencies alone, and that their use would need to be combined with traffic and congestion control efforts.

As the drug and traffic problems of young people were related to adult problems, so was the problem of juvenile delinquency. George Frohmader, of the Milwaukee County Children's Court Center, and Robert Stonek of the Department of Criminal Justice at the UW-Milwaukee, cited the need of new approaches to problem children.

The two professionals both recommended that the courts be used less frequently to deal with so-called unruly children and truants but that other social and community agencies be called upon. Frohmader supported the use of probation services as more successful in reforming juvenile offenders and Stonek said schools, families and the community at large should be involved in correction work. When courts must be relied upon, Frohmader said they should be family courts that treat all are not likely to be hired during family problems, including divorce.

Schmidt supported the elimination of truancy as a court-punishable offense and endorsed the concept that children should not be punished for things that adults cannot also be convicted of. He called for increased support of the Early Release and Intensive Supervision program that provides non-institutional services for problem youngsters.

Unemployment also is not solely a youth-oriented problem. In fact, it is most a problem for youth, all persons indicated, when it is a problem for adults and as young people are the last hired and the first laid off and young are least likely to find work, the state should become the employer of last resort, helping them on a temporary basis. He cited needs for manpower training, counseling, placement assistance and support services to help in solving the unemployment problem.

There remain, he agreed, artificial qualification barriers to employment that are discriminatory. Discrimination in employment, he said is unfair because it "thwarts the utilization of human resources," that are needed.

VD an Epidemic Among Young People

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — Venereal disease, unwanted pregnancy and accidental injury and death — are the three most serious and frequent health problems facing Wisconsin youth, both on and off college campuses, according to the director of the University of Wisconsin student health service.

Dr. John Kabler, speaking at the budget hearing called by Gov. elect Patrick J. Lucey, reported on the problems in the session focussing on the unique problems of youth.

Veneral disease has reached epidemic proportions in Wisconsin, as well as in the rest of the nation and the world, Kabler said. It is the second most serious youth medical problem. The incidence of gonorrhea has doubled among persons 19 to 24 years of age since 1965 and tripped among youth under 19, he said.

The spread of veneral disease affects all segments of the young population and is not limited to occupational groups, social circles or educational levels. The lack of knowledge about the disease and ignorance of its manifestations are in part responsible for its spread, he said.

There is a shortage of persons available and trained to do screening, and budget support for the effort is at pre-epidemic levels but must meet the effects of an epidemic.

From 1965 to 1970 the number of cases of gonorrhea have risen from 1,600 to more than 6,000. The latter figure was as of Oct. 1, and 1,200 new cases were reported, according to the Department of Health and Social Services between Oct. 12 and Nov. 28 of this year. The reported cases, are expected to amount to only one fifth of the cases in existence. Breaking up the chains of contacts is a slow and difficult process.

Legislation is needed to permit the treatment of VD in minors without parental permission.

Repeal Law
Wisconsin is now the only remaining state where the unmarried have no legal access to contraceptive information and devices and advice on family planning, Kebler said. The law considering such items and information obscene should be repealed, he said.

While information is not available, unwanted pregnancy, he said, is the third most widespread problem facing youth, that causes social, psychological and medical problems to be met by other means.

Motor vehicle accidents are responsible for the most injuries and deaths to males under 25, the doctor said, with falls and then car accidents are most frequent medical problems for young females. While the mortality rates involving car accidents have increased for youth during the past decade, he said, non-violent mortality rates have decreased.

Little Chute Parents Object To Limits on Lunch at School

LITTLE CHUTE — Approximately 50 residents appeared at a board of education meeting Tuesday night to object to a recent board policy limiting the area in which youngsters reside to qualify for bringing lunch to school.

The action was taken because of crowded conditions in the school and difficulties in supervision.

After listening to objectors, many with legitimate reasons why their students should be permitted to bring a lunch, the board agreed to reconsider the matter.

These parents were asked to write letters explaining their situation and the board would rule on them individually. Board members noted that conditions at the school had been somewhat relieved by the limitation policy established last month.

Teachers Complain — A grievance letter from elementary teachers was read, saying that the necessity to supervise noon lunch hour was taking away time from team teacher planning as well as causing problems with dressing properly for the teaching profession. It was pointed out that the inclement or severe weather often made it impractical for teacher to be outside supervising play areas in attire normally worn to school.

Supt. Leo Brnkalla pointed out that if the crowded conditions during lunch hour at the schools cannot be reduced, it might be necessary to hire two or four more supervisors.

Board members discussed overcrowding at the elementary school, but decided to delay action on discussing a proposed building addition until some decision on a parochial school aid bill is made by the state legislature.

Await Decision — A decision is expected in January or February and board members believe that this decision could have a bearing on enrollments in future years.

The board approved a proposal, submitted by the advisers of the junior class, to hold the Junior Prom at the Conway Motor Inn, Appleton. The group said that this would permit better control of students as the dinner and dance both would be in one location.

Board members reviewed a recent decision of a state education agency to reverse a decision of the Cooperative Education Service Agency No. 8 group, which would have detached a portion of the Kaukauna School District and attached it to Little Chute.

The state group said that the inclement or severe weather often made it impractical for teacher to be outside supervising play areas in attire normally worn to school.

Officials said that the school should attempt to expand its

Consumer Contact

Bureau Responds to Pleas for Buyers Aid

BY ARTHUR E. ROWSE
WASHINGTON — At precisely the hour last week when a group of housewives launched a nationwide sale of stamps to draw attention to consumer problems, a nationwide organization of businessmen disclosed plans for doing more to solve those problems.

Although the timing was merely a coincidence, rather than a split-second response of one group to another, it dramatized the accelerated pace of action programs by both consumers and businessmen in response to them.

Never before have businessmen become more alert to consumer issues. The 14-point plan of the Council of Better Business Bureaus promises a better day for consumers if it is fulfilled as announced last week.

For it brings one of the more controversial organizations into the mainstream of what has become known as "consumerism."

For many consumers frustrated by problems with products or services, the Better Business Bureau has become only a final disillusionment. By the Council's own count, four out of every ten callers to the 139 bureaus last year got either a busy or no-answer signal.

Of the six who did get in touch with BBB last year, many of the others had no bureau to contact in their area.

To help remedy these problems, the Council of Better Business Bureaus has drawn up a declaration of responsibilities to help business and the consuming public achieve maximum satisfaction in their relations with each other.

The council also has elected a new president, H. Bruce Palmer, a former insurance executive, and assigned him to raise $25 million from concerned businessmen to provide funds for the new program.

Among the aims of the program are:

- Increase bureau capacity to handle consumer complaints.
- Broaden bureau coverage by establishing new bureaus and inaugurating free telephone service for people not now covered.
- Set up consumer councils as vehicles to promote consumer education and to create a consumer presence that will encourage business in self-regulation.
- Twelve "public" members would be added to the board of directors.
- Allow private citizens to become members of local bureaus.

rears so they can receive periodical literature and materials and participate in market panels.

- Expand consumer education activities through schools, mobile vans and other means.
- Prod business to eliminate any malpractices in the marketing of goods and services.
- Encourage establishment of arbitration procedures for consumer complaints, a system which has been growing in popularity in recent years.

In announcing the new program, Council Chairman Elisha Gray II, head of the Whirlpool Corp., acknowledged "a swelling of consumer complaints and frustrations."

"We've reached the point," he said, "where either business is responsive to consumer needs, or the choice of voluntary action will be taken out of its hands."

Seasickness Medicine Is Best for This Trip

BY G. C. THOSTESON, M. D.
Dear Dr. Thosteson: What habits do you recommend for someone subject to seasickness aboard ship? What medication? — N. E. S.

I'd say use any of the various motion-sickness medications that are available. No special preference on my part. Take one tablet, or dose, an hour before the ship's departure. This may be repeated three or four times a day if necessary.

If symptoms develop, go lie down flat. Either fix your gaze on a spot on the ceiling or keep your eyes closed. The point is: do not watch the horizon or the sea, which makes you more conscious of movement, whether you want to be or not.

If you can manage a little something to eat, dry carbohydrate (melba toast, crackers, or such) is better tolerated than liquids.

One traveler I talked to claimed that his patronage at the bar was the reason why he was the only one of his party who wasn't seasick. Possibly the alcohol acted as a tranquilizer for him — but I have reservations. Maybe he was one of those people who never get seasick anyway.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What do you think about the noise people have in their ears? For two or three years I have had a noise in my ear something like a bee sound. The doctor says it is nothing to worry about, but I'm sure it is not normal. — Mrs. E. O. W.

Not "normal," perhaps, but far from uncommon as we grow older, and ordinarily nothing to worry about.

Sometimes the buzzing can be stopped fairly easily; sometimes there's nothing to do but learn how to live with it. For what I am able to tell you along these lines, send 15 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and ask for my booklet, "Ear Noises: Their Causes and Cures." If nothing else, it will relieve your mind — but it may do more than that.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I'm a chronic psoriatic with constant flare-ups. When I complain of the intolerable itching and the sleepless nights, sympathetic friends advise medications to "cure" my condition. How can I convince these well-wishers there is no known cure for psoriasis? Applied medications merely worsen the condition. Please advise? — N. D.

You probably can't convince 'em — unless they got psoriasis themselves. Then they'll believe you.

Anybody with severe psoriasis has my sympathy. Sometimes the ailment cures itself spontaneously, and then whatever "cure" is in use at the moment gets the credit. Maybe rightly, at times. We don't know. All we are sure of is that there is no known treatment that will work predictably.

My advice to you is to see a dermatologist, not with the expectation of a cure, of course, but for one of the dependable softening salves which by softening the scale on the skin usually (and quickly) makes the itching subside.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: With a hiatal hernia, is it safe to do exercises, calisthenics, golf.

Earth Could Swallow All of Its Garbage, Scientist Asserts

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A University of Washington geophysicist says one way for mankind to get rid of its garbage would be to let the earth swallow it.

Dr. Robert C. Bostrom said Tuesday this could be done by dumping bales of solid trash into ocean depths whose bottom materials are believed to find their way eventually into the earth's molten core through buckling of the rocky outer crust.

Bostrom told the annual meeting of the American Geophysical Union the process requires about a million years. In another 15 million years or so the garbage might resurface, he said, but it would be in the form of molten rock.

University Extension Degrees Possible With All Off-Campus Study

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — The University Extension of the University of Wisconsin expects to begin offering degrees to students who complete all of their academic work away from a university campus.

The College of Extended Studies program was announced by Dr. Robert Clodius, acting president of the University of Wisconsin at the higher education budget hearing here. The announcement constituted the entire University Extension presentation at the hearing called by Governor-elect Patrick J. Lucey.

Clodius told the new governor that the courses, the faculty and the mechanisms for the baccalaureate degree program are all ready and available. The only remaining work to be done, he said, is to organize the curriculum and establish major and degree requirements.

The program is not in the university's budget request, the acting president said, but a request for support is expected later. Cost of the program to students is expected to be based on campus instruction costs with the only extra fees relating to the operation of the extended studies courses.

Available to All
"This will be a no holds-barred program," Clodius reported. He said he expected the program would be open to prisoners incarcerated in state institutions, the disabled or bed-ridden and all other persons for whom campus residence is impossible or inconvenient.

The extension will use any and all means to make courses available to students, including Clodius.

The extension will use any and all means to make courses available to students, including, Clodius said, television, radio, correspondence courses, the Educational Telephone Network, films and cassette video-tape recordings.

George Strother, acting chancellor of the University Extension, told the governor that the college of extended studies will provide for more flexible majors and requirements than a degree-granting campus. He said he expected the entrance requirements would not be the same as a campus in order to permit more open admission than a residential school.

Open School
Lucey asked Clodius what relation the program would have to the Kellett commission on education recommendation for an open school.

The acting president called the degree program, "another way of stating the same thing." Strother last week wrote a letter to the extension faculty criticizing the Kellett recommendation and referring to it as a new program to do the same thing as the extension has excelled in doing for several decades.

The Extension has offered one degree program in professional

The Most Exciting Headache News In Years!

Doctors' Tests In Treating Nervous Tension Headaches Now Made Public

Non-Narcotic Tablet That Needs No Prescription Proves Just As Effective As The Expensive, Leading Pain-Relief Prescription Of Doctors.

If you're one of the many who get tense, nervous headaches, these latest tests by doctors should be of the greatest importance.

In recent medical tests doctors proved a famous tablet that needs no prescription gives the same complete headache relief as the expensive, leading prescription of doctors.

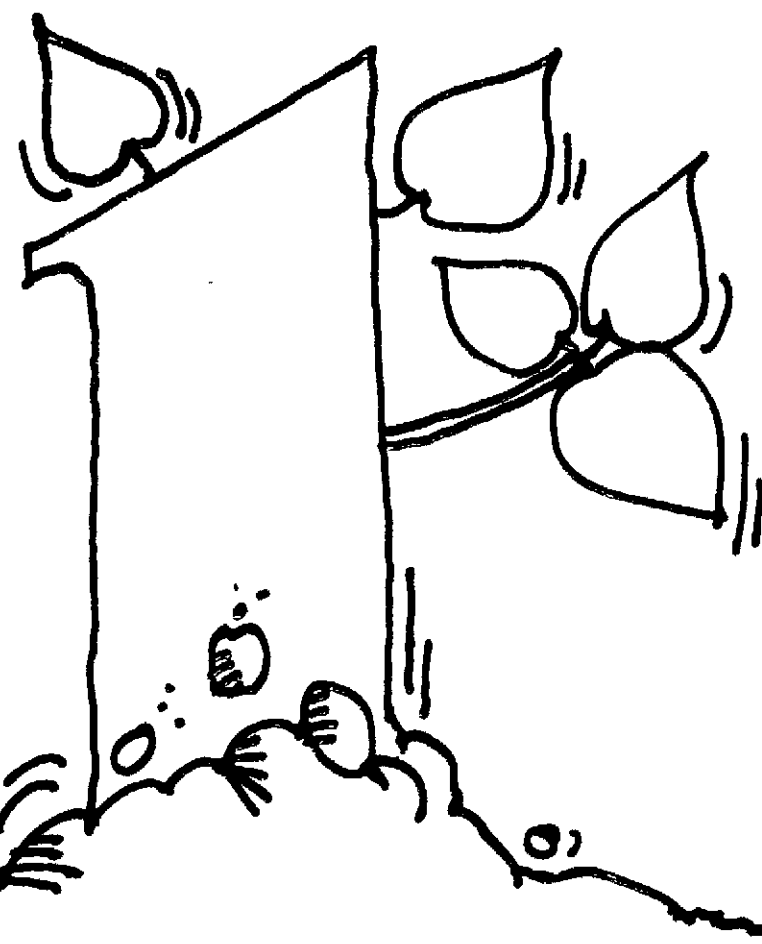

These doctors' tests proved, beyond a doubt, that Anacin is just as effective to relieve tension headaches, yet Anacin needs no prescription and is far more economical.

With Anacin, headache pain and its nervous tension vanish in minutes. Despite its strength, Anacin is not narcotic. You can take it without getting dizzy or an upset stomach.

Next time take powerful, fast-acting Anacin. Anacin Tablets give the same complete headache pain relief as the leading prescription product for which doctors wrote 21 million prescriptions last year.

A first is growing in Appleton.

Two Students Who asked for and received permission to attend President Nixon's news conference, leave the White House. They are Donna Greene, Syracuse University journalism student, and Robert Gordon, 16-year-old Newton, Mass., high school student. Neither was called upon by the President. (AP Wire-photo)

Ignored by Nixon Students 'Observe' Conference

By ANN BLACKMAN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Though hesitant at first, 19-year-old Donna Greene soon lost her stage fright and stood up shouting "Mr. President," knowing full well she probably wouldn't be recognized.

"I wanted to ask if he's considered letting student reporters cover the presidency as a way to improve communications between the administration and college communities," said the Syracuse University junior. "I didn't come to embarrass him."

Miss Greene was one of several high school and college students invited to President Nixon's news conference Thursday night after writing to the White House, expressing interest in attending.

Although the White House made it clear the students were there as guests and observers, not reporters, several joined Miss Greene in trying to get in a question. None succeeded.

Miss Greene, who is concerned about the President's ability to communicate with young people, said she would like to see Nixon make more use of school newspapers.

"Things are pretty bad now," she said in an interview before the conference.

"Even when the President does things right, students don't believe in his sincerity. Student reporters might help close the credibility gap on campus."

In a red-and-white blouse with a navy midi skirt slit to the knee, Miss Greene found a seat about 20 feet from the President, where, throughout the 36-minute conference, she alternated between trying to take notes and recognize reporters whose bylines she knew. Afterwards she said she didn't think the press conference accomplished much.

Other students said they also wanted to ask the President about improving communications with young people. Several were critical of the conference format, as well as some of the questions.

"The conference was over much too quickly," said Stephen Zrike, 21, a Dartmouth senior. "The questions tended to be superficial and no new information was gathered, no new issues were raised and there was no new understanding of the President's policy position."

Candy Hopkins, 20, a junior from California's University of Redlands said, "The President was allowed to get by without follow-up questions."

"I wasn't that impressed, but sure, I'd like to come again," said Robert Gordon, 16, a reporter for his Newton, Mass., high school paper. The Newtonite.

"Nixon said in his 1969 campaign he wanted to bring the country together," Gordon said. "I wanted to ask him what specific actions he was taking to fulfill this promise to American youth."

The thin, freckle-faced young man said he thought the President handled himself superbly, but "some of the questions asked by the press were rather soft."

Calley Men Told Chaplain They Would 'Level Village'

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP) — The night before Lt. William L. Calley's platoon swept through My Lai, a blond and balding Army chaplain paid a courtesy call on two of the lieutenant's superior officers.

"We generally discussed the operation," said the Episcopal priest, "and one of the two said, 'We are going into the village and if we receive any return fire, we are going to level the village.'"

"I said I didn't think we made war that way," the Rev. Carl Edward Creswell testified at Calley's court-martial Thursday. "One of the officers replied: 'It's a tough war.'"

At the company level, Calley's chief defense lawyer said in his opening statement, the orders passed down for My Lai were "to kill every living thing in the hamlet."

The Rev. Mr. Creswell was the first witness testifying for Calley, who is charged with the murder of 102 civilians March 16, 1968.

"Full Account"

The 27-year-old Calley, silent and ramrod straight through four weeks of trial, will tell his own story, attorney George La-timer told the all-officer jury, thereby giving you a full account of Calley's men met no answering count of his actions, conduct and behavior."

Latimer did not outline what Calley will say. "His life is at stake," Latimer said. "I prefer to have him relate it to you first without being diluted by me."

Conviction of premeditated murder carries a sentence of life imprisonment or death.

The Calley platoon, Latimer said, went into My Lai resentful about the recent deaths of buddies, understrength, undertrained, and with fresh assurance "that at long last they were going to close with the enemy and get even for the loss of their buddies."

The GIs were told, the attorney continued, that all civilians were gone from the village and "if there were any occupants remaining, they would be Viet Cong or Viet Cong sympathizers."

Order Given

Latimer said the company commander, Capt. Ernest L. Medina, "ordered the village burned, the livestock killed, the wells contaminated and everything living in the hamlet killed. No instructions were given on the handling of civilians."

The general consensus of 35 prosecution witnesses was that "thereby giving you a full account of Calley's men met no answering count of his actions, conduct and behavior."

fire from the longtime Viet Cong stronghold that day but that the villagers—mostly old men, women and children—were rounded up and executed in cold fury.

The Rev. Mr. Creswell, now of St. Andrew's church in Emporia, Kan., said the courtesy call was on Lt. Col. Frank Barker, who commanded a task force composed of three rifle companies and a field artillery battery. With Barker, the Rev. Mr. Creswell said, was Maj. Charles C. Calhoun, serving as executive officer of Task Force Barker.

The minister said he did not remember who made the statement concerning plans for the My Lai attack.

Barker was killed in a helicopter crash three months after My Lai. Calhoun has been charged by the Army with dereliction in performance of his duties and failure to report possible misconduct to proper authorities.

During brief cross-examination by the prosecution, the Rev. Mr. Creswell conceded the officers had said nothing about killing women and children, or that all inhabitants were to be destroyed, or that any such instructions had been transmitted to the troops.

A Second Chance Filibuster Threatened on SST

WASHINGTON (AP) — The any more SST spending.

Proxmire said a cadre of senators who agree with him are prepared to speak for several weeks on the matter—both night and day, if necessary.

Such a talkathon would almost certainly prevent the Senate from acting on the $2.7-billion transportation bill—the measure containing SST money—before the next Congress convenes early next year.

"I'm sure we're going to be successful in seeing that the conference report is rejected," Proxmire said in an interview. He would not say whether he has the votes to reject the report outright.

"I'd say the one and only way they can get the transportation bill through the Senate is to delete the SST funds," he said.

"If not, we are prepared to discuss this for several weeks, because that's how long I think it will take to get out all the facts."

House conferees retreated to a $250-million spending level only after reaching the understanding allowing the President to seek more funds.

"I was very hopeful, but I'm not too surprised at the result," Proxmire said, pointing out four of the seven senators involved in the conference had voted for the plane during the Senate roll call.

H said a cut to $210 million "doesn't make a bit of sense to me because if you're going to spend that much, you should go ahead with the whole program."

He predicted an SST program at $210 million would result in an eventual cost overrun reaching up to $300 million, saying the slowdown would mean later spending would have to be done at higher prices.

"But I don't see any point in slowing it down," he said. "It should be stopped."

Proxmire and other senators contend no SST should fly until questions about its impact on the environment are resolved.

They question the current need for the plane, predict the government would inevitably lose money on its contract with the private firms developing the plane, and see the project as a symbol of misplaced priorities and unchecked technology.

Noise Feared

They have raised fears a worldwide fleet of the faster-than-sound planes would create unacceptable sonic booms and deafening airport noise and might even change the weather and climate.

On the other side, SST backers contend killing the program will erode the advance of American technology, damage the economy, cause the loss of up to 150,000 jobs and imperil American supremacy in the world's aircraft markets.

Last week, the Senate adopted Proxmire's amendment striking all SST money from the transportation bill on a surprisingly lopsided 52-41 vote.

The House refused Monday to defect from its previous support of the plane designed to make the New York-Paris run in three hours or less.

The House is expected to act on the conference report Monday. If it approves it, the measure will go to the Senate Tuesday.

THE AGES ON BRIDGE

World Champions
by
IRA G. CORN JR.
TEAM CAPTAIN

Much of a bridge player's life is spent finding new ways to take tricks. On rare occasions he must be equally adept at finding ways to lose tricks. Sometimes losing tricks becomes even more difficult than taking them!

Witness today's hand played in a recent Swiss Team event (a highly popular and relatively new event to United States tournament bridge — international match point team play for large groups):

The Bidding:

Goldman	Lawrence	North	East
South	West	North	East
2♣	Pass	2♣	Pass
2NT	Pass	3NT	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Ten of clubs.

Bobby Goldman's two-club bid was an all-purpose forcing bid (2D, 2H, 2S are weak two bids). Lawrence's two diamond response was negative. Goldman's rebid of two no-trump described a no-trump hand of 23-25 high-card points. Mike Lawrence had an automatic raise to game.

West opened the club 10. East played the king and Goldman won the ace. The contract seemed hopeless because of the lack of an entry to dummy's good diamonds.

However, Bobby did not give up. He led a low heart from his hand won by West's 10. West continued with the club six. East played the jack, and Bobby won the queen.

Bobby now cashed his ace-king of hearts and his ace-king of diamonds, creating this position:

When Goldman led the club four, West won the nine and dummy's club eight became high. West was now forced to lead spades since a minor suit lead would provide entry to the dummy.

West did not think out his problem and led the spade nine. Goldman won with his jack and led back a small spade. This awoke West as he realized what was about to happen. He saw that he would be forced to lead a minor suit to dummy if he won this trick with his queen and cashed his ace.

Therefore, he tried to relinquish the lead by first playing his ace and then the queen. However, Goldman was ready for this maneuver. He allowed West to hold the queen. West now had to lead a minor suit to dummy's high minor-suit cards.

West should have defeated the hand when on lead with the club nine. He should have played his ace of spades, followed by the queen of spades. Goldman would have countered by winning the queen and exiting with another spade, hoping for an original holding of A-Q10 with West. With the actual distribution, the contract would fail, since East would win the third spade and cash the high heart.

Today's West did not find the best way to lose his tricks. His punishment of building the bridge to declarer's dead dummy was roughly proportional to the seriousness of his crime.

Nietsnie Peace Tree Wins First Place in Tri-Y Contest

BY MARY WITT
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Dedicated to the proposition that Christmas should inspire thoughts of harmony among men, Nietsnie Tri-Y has been awarded first place in the annual Tri-Y Club tree trimming contest.

Entitled "Tie the World in Peace," its Christmas tree was voted the most original and beautiful Wednesday morning, after judges, Mrs. Mitch Joannes and Mrs. William Senecal, viewed the four entrants in this year's competition.

Blending the traditional red and green color scheme with a modern interpretation of the age-old idea, the ninth grade girls from Einstein Junior High School chose red velvet bows, tiny red lights and golden paper doves inscribed with the word "peace" to adorn their tree now on display in the lobby of the YMCA.

The three other Tri-Y trees are there, too, all of them donated by the Y's Mens Club to provide Tri-Y Clubs with the special opportunity of saying "Merry Christmas" to the public. Numbering more than 80, the girls held their own celebration Tuesday evening, when they gathered for the tree trimming session complete with carols, Santa Claus, pizza dogs and punch.

For their efforts, Aquarius Tri-Y comprised of eighth graders from Roosevelt Junior High School, won second place. Their tree called "The Good Ole Days" is decorated with gingerbread cookies, blown egg ornaments and strings of popcorn and cranberries.

Third Place Winner
Third place was awarded to "O Tannenbaum" trimmed with handmade, painted cookies, white lights and an angel at the top. The tree was the work of Venus Tri-Y, eight graders from Einstein Junior High School.

Receiving honorable mention was the snow-covered "Christmas Morn" tree decorated by Les Jeunes Filles Tri-Y with blue ornaments, red lights and blue and green garlands. The girls are ninth graders at Roosevelt Junior High School.
